PREFACE

The academic session of 2018-19 at Jangipur College was marked by a couple of enriching events and activities aimed at fostering holistic development, and social awareness among students. The college's commitment to providing a well-rounded education was evident through the diverse range of events organized by various departments and units, including the IQAC, Women's Cell and Equal Opportunity Cell.

Connecting hygiene with mental health is not usually prioritised in sensitization drives of educational institutions. Inertia to speak about the psychosexual issues usually complicates the matter. Therefore, the Women's Cell under the aegis of the IQAC took up the initiative to spread awareness about mental and psych-social health, especially for girl students of a rural college. As a part of the endeavour, few resource persons from the reputed and well-established organization, Manobikshan was invited to deliver lecture and sensitize students on such a significant issue. The event began with the welcome address of the Teacher-in-Charge of the college, Dr Naba Kumar Ghosh. The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Rudra Prasad Chakraborty, Neuropsychiatrist, Manobikshan. He explained in details how emotions regulate mental health in people and how our neural mechanisms provide insights into mental illness. The second speaker, Mr. Kaustav Parajuli, psychologist, discussed how hygiene deteriorates out of exhaustion. The last speaker was Suvaccha Chakraborty, an intern with Manobikshan who dealt with the preservation and promotion of mental health and hygiene. The entire event was conducted in an interactive way.

The 4-Days' Workshop on Positive Discrimination was specifically meant for SC, ST, OBC and Minority students to inculcate the values of positive discrimination. Mr Tulshi Charan Mondal chiefly conducted this workshop. Various faculty had also shared their experiences in traversing the difficult terrain of raising awareness among the students regarding the marginalized sections of society and motivated them to gain success in life. Increasingly, the society has become intolerant of accommodating these sections. They are besieged to surrender helplessly in front of such arm-twisting. Therefore, it is necessary to raise awareness on this subject and hence this workshop.

Objectives:

- Creating awareness for female health issues and menstrual hygiene
One of the most pressing developmental issues is female health and hygiene especially in a country like India where about half of the population of the country constitute women who lack access to basic hygiene. The problem is severe in rural areas where girls drop out of school because of lack of proper toilets and a whole lot of stigma and embarrassment is attached to the issue of female hygiene especially menstrual hygiene
- Sensitizing students and faculty members on the good practices of sanitation
To educate students of rural area on the account of the use of hygienic sanitary methods. A great deal of miscommunication that is already prevalent on menstrual health and hygiene creates an impression on formative minds that menstruation is taboo. Therefore, girls feel hesitant and shy to come out in the open and discuss menstrual health and hygiene. Family plays a very important role in magnifying this silence on menstruation especially mothers of girls who think that to menstruate is being “dirty.”

- To educate women and girls about the safe and sustainable disposal of sanitary napkins

The idea was to educate girls on the ways of disposal of sanitary items and their consequences on environment

Context: (Concept Note)

Adolescent girls continue to be ignorant of the scientific facts and sanitary health practices related to menstruation, which can have negative health effects. Menstruation and menstrual practices are still tainted by taboos and socio-cultural constraints. A crucial component of health education for teenage girls is menstrual hygiene, which is a significant risk factor for infections of the reproductive system. Today's teenage girls are in need of the crucial message of proper menstrual hygiene, and they may acquire this message from a variety of sources, including informed parents, enthusiastic teachers, school nurses, and educational television programs. According to the United Nations, “In 2016, one third of all primary schools lacked basic drinking water, sanitation and hygiene services, affecting the education of millions of schoolchildren, but particularly girls managing menstruation, and one in four health-care facilities worldwide lacked basic water services, affecting more than 2 billion people.”

Teenage girls are a particularly vulnerable population in India, where female children are often ignored. In Indian society, menstruation is still seen as filthy or disgusting. The way one responds to menstruation depends on their level of awareness and understanding. When a girl is taught about menstruation and the changes which accompany along with it may affect how she reacts to menarche. Despite being a natural occurrence, menstruation is associated with a number of myths and practices that can occasionally have a negative impact on one's health. Women's hygiene habits during their periods are very important since they affect their health by making them more susceptible to infections of the reproductive tract (RTI). It is evident how menstrual hygiene habits, RTI, and socioeconomic position interact. Millions of women today suffer from RTI and its aftereffects, and the virus frequently spreads to the mother's unborn child. Women who are more knowledgeable about safe practices and menstrual hygiene are less susceptible to RTI and its aftereffects. Consequently, raising awareness of menstruation from an early age could improve safe practices and lessen the agony that millions of women endure. Girls should be educated about the facts of menstruation, its physiological effects, its importance in the development of secondary sexual traits, and—above all—appropriate hygienic practices, including the use of disposable sanitary menstrual absorbents, before making any changes to their menstrual practices.

The event was organized with the encouragement and able guidance of the chief patron Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh (Teacher In-Charge) and women's cell of Jangipur College. Connecting hygiene with mental health is not usually prioritised in sensitization drives of educational institutions. Inertia to speak about the psychosexual issues usually complicates the matter. #### Objectives:

- Introducing the concept of positive discrimination
Positive discrimination is the term used to describe preferential treatment meant to bring underrepresented groups up to a level of equity in the workplace. To implement positive discrimination, research must be done, a shared vocabulary must be created, leaders who support equity must be chosen, and the topic must be continuously discussed.
- Sensitizing students and faculty members on the good practices of work place
Although the Equality Act of 2010 does not define positive discrimination, it is often believed to mean that members of underrepresented minority groups are automatically given precedence over members of majority groups, regardless of their qualities. Put another way, it refers to treating one group of people better than another because they share a protected characteristic.
- To enlighten on the relevance of uplifting the minorities/backward classes in a raised job platform
Positive discrimination based on a person's disability is also permitted, but employers are required to provide reasonable accommodations to remove any disadvantages that a job applicant or employee with a disability may be facing.

Context: (Concept Note)

Preferential treatment intended to raise underrepresented groups to a level of equity in the workplace is referred to as positive discrimination. In order to execute positive discrimination, it is necessary to carry out research, establish a common lexicon, choose leaders who support equity, and have a continuous conversation about the topic. This frequently happens when someone, regardless of their particular qualities, gets hired or promoted solely due to the presence of a protected feature, or they are given preferential treatment as a job applicant or employee. This could lead to an employer automatically giving preference to applications from specific groups, such as women or ethnic minorities, just because they are female or non-white, rather than because they are the most qualified or the greatest fit for a given position.

Creating standards or quotas in the hiring process to include a certain percentage of members of a protected characteristic group.

Positive discrimination is not defined in the Equality Act 2010; however, it is generally understood to mean that members of minority groups who are underrepresented are automatically given preference over members of majority groups, regardless of their merits. Stated differently, it describes the treatment of a group of individuals better than another due to the presence of a protected attribute. The 2010 Act defines the following nine protected characteristics: age, disability, gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, sex, or sexual orientation; marriage and civil partnerships; pregnancy and maternity. It is typically forbidden to treat someone better than another just because of a protected attribute, unless there is a strong occupational requirement in place, such as in the case of a women's refuge, where all staff members must be female. Positive discrimination based on an individual's handicap is also allowed; however, employers must make reasonable accommodations to eliminate any disadvantages that a disabled worker or job applicant may be experiencing.

The event was organized with the encouragement and able guidance of the chief patron Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh (Teacher In-Charge) and Equal opportunity cell of Jangipur College. The esteemed resource person Sri Tulsi Charan Mondal addressed the concepts of positive discrimination and the practices of equal opportunity in workplace. He explained the basis of this concept in the light of providing equal platform to the minorities or backward class of the society.

PREFACE

Established in 1950, Jangipur College has always been ardent in organizing activities that encourage students to participate and gather knowledge. This report documents the remarkable seminar meticulously organized by the esteemed departments and committees of Jangipur College. The seminar exemplified the institution's unwavering commitment to academic excellence, intellectual curiosity, and cultural enrichment. It provided a unique platform for students, faculty, and the broader community to engage with a critical topic, fostering an environment of scholarly learning, rigorous dialogue, and collaborative engagement.

The global pandemic of COVID-19 brought unprecedented challenges to educational institutions worldwide, compelling them to adapt swiftly to new modes of learning and interaction. In this context, Jangipur College has demonstrated remarkable resilience and commitment to its mission of fostering knowledge and inclusivity. Despite the constraints imposed by the pandemic, the college has successfully organized a series of seminars and programs aimed at addressing critical societal issues. One of the notable initiatives undertaken by Jangipur College during this challenging period is the seminar titled "Engaging Ethics in Gender Equality: Towards an Equitable Campus Life." This programme reflects the college's dedication to promoting ethical behavior and gender equality, even amidst a global crisis. Recognizing the importance of these discussions, the college leveraged virtual platforms to bring together students, faculty, and experts in a safe and engaging manner. The seminar focused on exploring the ethical dimensions of gender equality within the campus environment, aiming to dismantle patriarchal biases and foster a spirit of inclusivity. Through insightful keynote addresses, interactive discussions, and multimedia presentations, the event provided a comprehensive examination of the challenges and opportunities in creating an equitable campus life.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to all the organizers, participants, and supporters who made the events possible in these tough times. Their enthusiasm and dedication were the driving forces behind the success of this program. As we reflect on this journey of discovery and intellectual engagement, we hope these events inspired, broadened horizons, and strengthened connections within the Jangipur College community. Let these records serve as a testament to the spirit of inquiry, creativity, and collaboration that defines our institution. Thank you for your participation and support in these enriching experiences.

Event Title: Engaging Ethics in Gender Equality: Towards an Equitable Campus Life

Organized By: Women's Cell, Jangipur College

Collaborations: Chandnichakhat Association Rural Social and Health Advancement (NGO with Niti Aayog Registration No.: WB/2009/0007411)

Dates: 08.03.2020, 12 pm

Resource Persons:

1. Dr. Koyel Basu, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Political Science, Jangipur College
2. Dr. Basudeb Chakrabarti, Associate Professor, Dept. of English, Jangipur College
3. Dr. Nurul Mortoza, Associate Professor, Dept. of Bengali, Jangipur College

Objectives:

1. To approach inclusively raising awareness among both male and female students.
2. To voice the young individuals who often remain silent about gender discrimination.
3. To bring Positive Campus Environment: creating a supportive and positive environment.
4. To foster an environment where students do not have to hide their identities.
5. To explore/interrogate the evolving domain of ethics and how it affects the campus life.
6. To consolidate an egalitarian campus by inculcating an ideal standard of ethics.

Short Description of the Event:

The Women's Cell of Jangipur College organized a significant programme in collaboration with Chandnichakhat Association Rural Social and Health Advancement on 8th March, 2020. The event aimed at promoting equality and ethical behaviour on campus, addressing issues of gender bias and patriarchal norms. The central message of the event was rooted in the belief that all human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights. The program sought to reflect this ideal by exploring ethical practices within the campus environment.

Keynote Address by Dr. Koyel Basu, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Political Science

Dr. Koyel Basu delivered the keynote address, focusing on the prevalent patriarchal attitudes on campus that marginalize female students. Her address highlighted how these attitudes create an environment of "otherness" for girls, undermining their sense of belonging and equality.

Audio-Visual Presentation by Dr. Basudeb Chakrabarti, Associate Professor, Dept. of English

Dr. Basudeb Chakrabarti presented an insightful audio-visual critique of certain campus practices and phrases such as "behave like a girl" or "walk like a girl." He discussed how these stereotypes confine girls to limited roles and expectations. Additionally, he pointed out that such stereotypes are harmful to all students: while girls are made to believe they are physically weaker, boys are conditioned to suppress their emotions, encapsulated in the phrase "boys don't cry."

Interactive Talk by Dr. Nurul Mortoza, Associate Professor, Dept. of Bengali

Dr. Nurul Mortoza conducted an interactive session on the concept of the "male gaze" and its implications on campus life. He explained how this perspective affects interpersonal relationships and contributes to false ethical standards, particularly evident in cultural events and sports. His talk shed light on how these skewed notions of ethics can become entrenched in institutional settings.

Impact and Engagement

The entire event was designed to be interactive, encouraging active participation and dialogue among students and faculty. This approach ensured that the discussions were not only informative but also personally engaging and eye-opening for many attendees. The programme successfully raised awareness about gender equality and ethical behaviour, inspiring a more inclusive and respectful campus culture.

PREFACE

Established in 1950, Jangipur College, has always been diligent in organizing various activities which encourages our student to participate and gather knowledge. This report documents the remarkable series of events meticulously organized by the esteemed departments and committees of Jangipur College. These activities exemplified the institution's unwavering commitment to academic excellence, intellectual curiosity, and cultural enrichment. The events provided a unique platform for students, faculty, and the broader community to engage with a diverse range of topics, fostering an environment of scholarly learning, rigorous dialogue, and collaborative engagement.

Among the highlights of our program was 'Prasanga Rabindranath', an event dedicated to the life and works of Rabindranath Tagore. This celebration delved into his multifaceted contributions to literature, art, and philosophy, offering profound insights into his enduring legacy. 'Modern Era of Scientific Research and Medical Ethics to Combat the Corona Pandemic', addressed the latest advancements in scientific research and the ethical challenges faced by the medical community during the COVID-19 crisis. Our 'Seven Days International Online Lecture Series and Workshop on "Revisiting the History of India & Beyond"' proved to be a comprehensive exploration of Indian history and its global intersections. This series featured renowned international scholars who provided diverse perspectives and engaged participants in interactive workshops. In a similar vein, the 'Webinar on 'Choose to Challenge Inequity in Leadership of Women in a COVID-19 World"' spotlighted the crucial issues of gender equity and leadership during the pandemic, encouraging a critical examination of the barriers and opportunities for women in leadership roles. Additionally, the 'Online Workshop on the "History of Bangladesh from Liberation to the Present Day"' traced the historical trajectory of Bangladesh from its independence to its contemporary state. This workshop aimed to provide a nuanced understanding of the country's socio-political evolution. Similarly, the 'Online Workshop on "History and Tourism in India"' explored the rich historical tapestry of India and its impact on tourism, highlighting the interplay between heritage and contemporary travel experiences. Finally, the 'Two Days International Webinar on "Modern Indian Philosophical Thinkers"' brought together experts to discuss the ideas and contributions of prominent modern Indian philosophers. This event provided a platform for examining how their thoughts have shaped contemporary philosophical discourse and their relevance in today's world.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to all the organizers, participants, and supporters who made these events possible. Their enthusiasm and dedication were the driving forces behind the success of this program. As we reflect on this journey of discovery and intellectual engagement, we hope these events inspired, broadened horizons, and strengthened connections within the Jangipur College community. Let these records serve as a testament to the spirit of inquiry, creativity, and collaboration that defines our institution. Thank you for your participation and support in these enriching experiences.

2. EVENT TITLE: MODERN ERA OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH AND MEDICAL ETHICS TO COMBAT CORONA PANDEMIC

Organized By: Dept. of Chemistry and Dept. of Zoology

Collaborations, If Any: IQAC, Jangipur College

Dates: 28/07/2020, 9:45 am to 1:30 pm

Online Links: <https://youtu.be/Shdjc2e7Qo>,
<http://www.youtube.com/@Jangipurcollege3950>

Resource Persons:

1. Dr. Sandeepan Halder, MD. Consultant, Oncology Department, The Mission Hospital, Durgapur
2. Dr. Debasis Samanta, Principal Scientist, Polymer Science and Technology Department, CSIR-CLRI, Chennai, India
3. Dr. Anilava Kabiraj, Retired Professor, Department of Zoology, Kalyani University

Objectives:

1. Enhance Awareness:
This programme aims to raise knowledge of the COVID-19 pandemic and how to protect oneself and others in the community from catching the disease. After completing this course, the student will be able to diagnose symptoms, educate people about the corona virus, take preventative measures, and adhere to Indian council of medical research and world health organization guidelines.
2. Dispel the Spread of Myths:
The key objective of the COVID awareness programme was to circulate accurate information about COVID 19 and stops myths and misconceptions from spreading in the local communities.
3. Enhance Confidence among Different Sections of Students:
Organizing such programmes could help us assure our students and their families that we as an organization always stand for their goodwill, both academic as well as health betterment are important for us.

Short Description of the Event:

The Department of Chemistry and Dept. of Zoology of Jangipur College in collaboration with its IQAC Committee organized a one day national webinar on modern era of scientific research and medical ethics to combat corona pandemic. The webinar aimed at adopting measures to deal with the global pandemic. World is now facing an unprecedented health and socio-economic crisis due to COVID Pandemic. All aspects of human civilization is affected by this pandemic. It has also raised voice against the spirit of scientific research and medical ethics. By all means the world after this pandemic will be a new one. Our effort through this webinar is to provide a precise awareness to students, teachers and other professionals to withstand this pandemic. The programme schedule has been attached as follows:

Programme Scheduled

Inaugural Session (9.45 Am to 10.15 Am)
9.45 Am: introductory Remarks By Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, TIC, Jangipur College
10:00 Am: Welcome Address By Dr. Bikash Kumar Panda, IQAC Coordinator, Jangipur College
Technical Session-I (10:15am to 11:00 Am)
Lecture 1 Dr. Sandeepan Halder MD, Consultant, Oncology Department, The Mission Hospital, Durgapur Title of the Lecture: COVID 19-Will It Rule The Rest of Our Lives?
Interactive Session-I: (11:00 Am to 11:15 Am)
Technical Session-II (11:15 Am to 12:15 Am)
Lecture 2 Dr. Debasis Samanta Principal Scientist, Polymer Science and Technology Department, CSIR-CLRI Chennai, India Title of the Lecture: Polymer Chemistry: Background, Synthesis, Applications and Specific Scopes During Corona Pandemic
Interactive Session-II: (12:00 Noon to 12:15 Pm)
Technical Session-III (12:15 Pm to 1:00 Pm)
Lecture 3 Dr. Anilava Kabiraj Retired Professor Department of Zoology Kalyani University Title of the Lecture: Tracking The Source and Spread of Corona Virus infection
Interactive Session-III: (1:00 Pm to 1:15 Pm)
Valedictory &amp; Vote of Thanks: (1.15 P.M to 1.30 P.M)

The webinar offered a comprehensive overview of the COVID-19 pandemic. It began with an introduction that outlined the webinar's objectives and provided a brief overview of the virus. Medical and scientific insights were shared, covering the virus's symptoms, transmission, variants, and the latest research and medical advances. The public health response, including global and national strategies, vaccination campaigns, and safety measures, was discussed. The impact on healthcare systems, highlighting the strain on hospitals and healthcare workers, innovations in healthcare delivery, and mental health concerns, was examined. Societal and economic impacts, such as the economic recession, the transition to online learning, and social and psychological effects, were also addressed. The development, distribution, efficacy, and safety of COVID-19 vaccines, along with current treatments and therapeutic approaches, were covered. The webinar delved into COVID-19 variants and their implications, providing a future outlook on the pandemic. Global cooperation and challenges, including the role of international organizations, global collaboration in research, and addressing vaccine inequity, were explored. Personal stories from COVID-19 survivors and frontline workers were shared to highlight community support and resilience. Interactive sessions, including Q&A with experts, panel discussions, and participant engagement through polls and surveys, enhanced the webinar experience. Educational and preventive measures emphasized the importance of public awareness, preventive actions, and addressing misinformation. The webinar concluded with a summary of key takeaways, resources for further information, and announcements for future webinars.

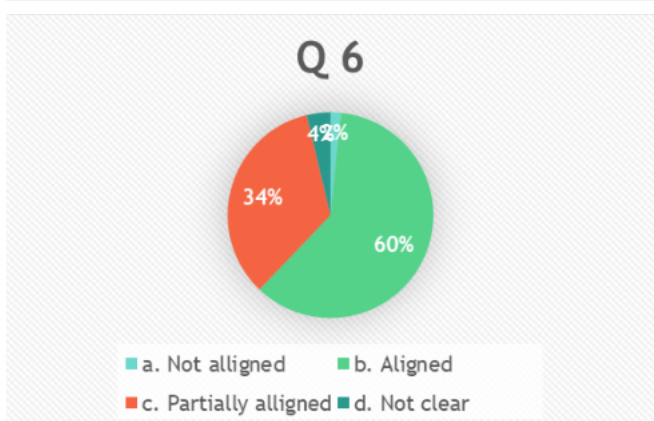

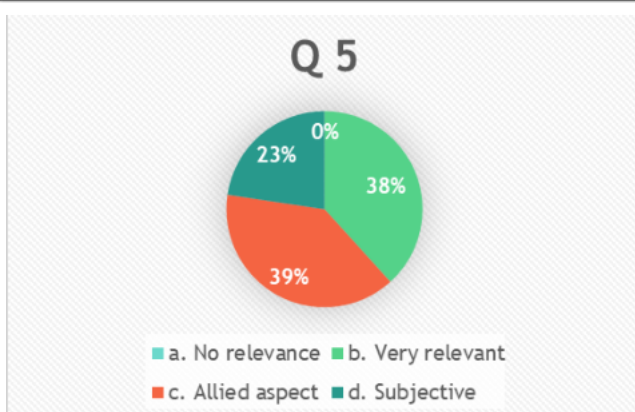

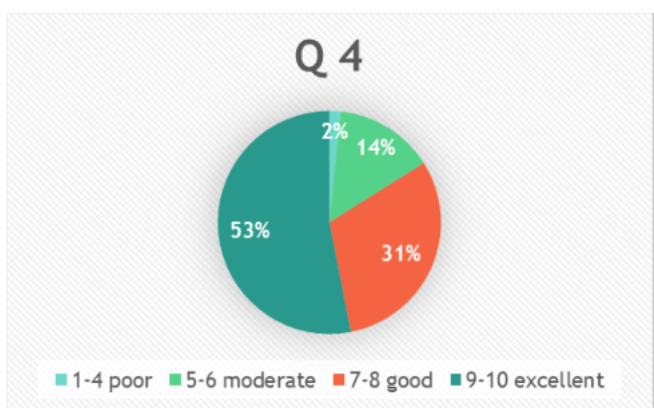

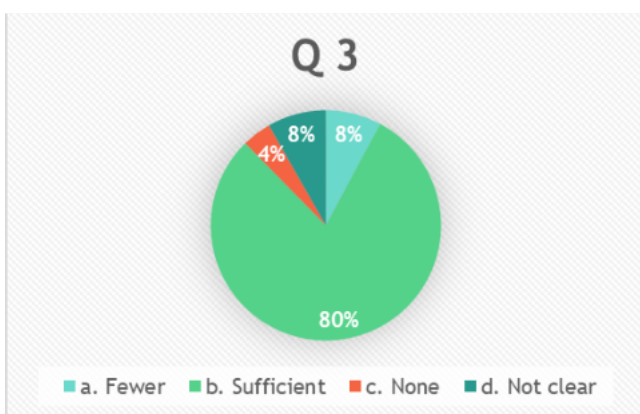

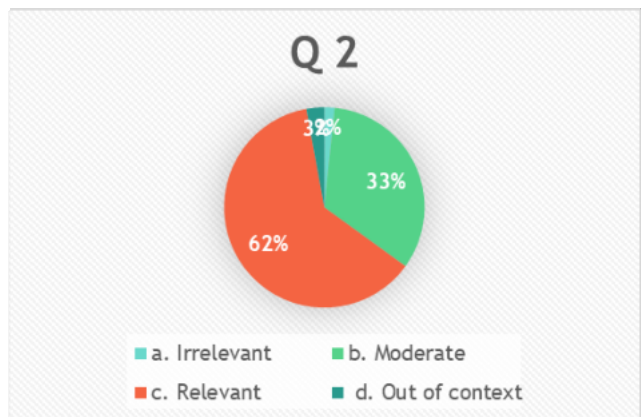

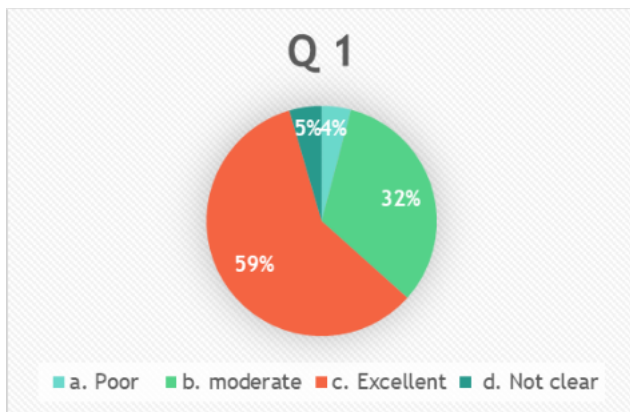

The webinar was aimed to provide a comprehensive understanding of the COVID-19 pandemic, its impact, and the ongoing efforts to combat it. The sessions are designed to offer valuable insights from experts and foster an informed community response to the challenges posed by the pandemic.

Objectives:

- To revisit and reassess the historical narratives of India and its global interactions.
- To facilitate interdisciplinary discussions among historians, scholars, and students.
- To provide a platform for presenting new research and methodologies in historical studies.
- To foster international collaboration and knowledge exchange.

Short Description of the Event:

The Dept. of History and IQAC, Sripat Singh College, Jiaganj in collaboration with IQAC committee, Jangipur college organized a seven days international online lecture series and workshop on "Revisiting the History of India & Beyond". It was held from 02/09/2020 to 08/09/2020. The event aimed to provide a platform for scholars, historians, and enthusiasts from around the globe to engage in insightful discussions and workshops focused on re-examining historical narratives and exploring new perspectives on India's rich history and its global connections.

Day 1: The conference commenced with an introductory address that set the stage for the sessions to follow, highlighting the themes and objectives of the event. This was followed by the inaugural address, where key dignitaries shared their insights and expectations. The first technical session delved into diverse topics, establishing a strong foundation for the discussions ahead.

Day 2: The second day featured Technical Session 2, focusing on "The Bengal Renaissance." Scholars examined the cultural and intellectual resurgence in Bengal, shedding light on its impact on society. The session also included a presentation on "Detribalization and Retribalization: A Study of Continuity and Change in Santal Identity," which explored the evolving identity of the Santal community amid socio-political changes. Another significant discussion was on "The Colonial Construction of Indian Land: Debates on Revenue Settlements and Economic Transformation," analyzing colonial policies and their economic implications.

Day 3: Day 3 addressed the refugee crisis and the historical journey from partition to the freedom movement, focusing on the minority community in East Pakistan. This session highlighted the human struggles and resilience during tumultuous times. Additionally, the linkage between globalization and human rights was explored, discussing how global interconnectedness impacts human rights issues. Other related topics were also covered, providing a comprehensive view of historical and contemporary human rights challenges.

Day 4: The fourth day continued on the concept of sovereignty during the reigns of the Khaljis and Tughlaqs. Experts discussed the political strategies and governance models of these dynasties, examining how they asserted and maintained sovereignty. Other topics related to medieval political structures and their legacies were also explored.

Day 5: On Day 5, the focus shifted to Mughal architecture, with a special reference to the Taj Mahal. Scholars presented in-depth analyses of architectural styles, construction techniques, and the cultural significance of Mughal monuments. Discussions also extended to other Mughal architectural achievements, highlighting their artistic and historical importance.

Day 6: The sixth day featured a debate between the philosophies of Gandhi and Tagore, particularly in the context of education and politics. Presenters compared and contrasted the views of these two influential leaders, exploring their contributions to Indian thought and society. Other topics related to their ideologies were also discussed, enriching the understanding of their legacies.

Day 7: The final day offered a broad overview of trends in world politics since 1945. Speakers analyzed major political developments, international relations, and global power dynamics over the past decades. This session provided a comprehensive understanding of contemporary world politics and its historical roots. The conference concluded with the valedictory session, where organizers and participants reflected on the insights gained and the overall success of the event.

The conference spanned seven days, each packed with informative and engaging sessions that covered a wide array of historical, cultural, and political topics. From the Bengal Renaissance to Mughal architecture, from the refugee crisis to global political trends, the event provided a platform for rich discussions and scholarly exchanges. The diverse range of topics and the depth of analysis highlighted the interconnectedness of historical events and contemporary issues, fostering a deeper understanding among participants. The conference not only showcased academic rigor but also underscored the importance of historical context in addressing current global challenges.

4. EVENT TITLE: WEBINAR ON 'CHOOSE TO CHALLENGE INEQUITY IN LEADERSHIP OF WOMEN IN A COVID 19 WORLD'

Organized By: Women's Cell, Jangipur College

Collaborations, If Any: IQAC, Jangipur College

Dates: 08.03.2021, 7 pm

Online Links: <https://meet.google.com/mnc-wabt-kpy>

Resource Persons: Dr. Suparna Bhattacharya, Calcutta Girl's College, Kolkata, Dr. Aparupa Ghosh, Jangipur College

Objectives:

- Explore the Impact of COVID-19 on Women's Leadership Roles: The pandemic has significantly affected women's leadership roles, with increased care giving responsibilities, job losses, and challenges in remote working environments. This objective aims to understand these impacts and how they have reshaped the landscape for women leaders.
- Highlight the Challenges Faced by Women Leaders during the Pandemic: women leaders have faced unique challenges such as heightened gender biases, limited access to decision-making platforms, and the stress of balancing professional and domestic duties. The webinar seeks to bring these issues to light to foster a deeper understanding of the barriers they face.
- Discuss Strategies for Promoting Gender Equity in Leadership: this objective focuses on identifying strategies to promote gender equity, such as mentorship programs, flexible work policies, and diversity training. The webinar will share best practices and successful initiatives to equip participants with tools to foster gender equity in their organizations.
- Encourage Participants to Challenge Existing inequities and Advocate for Change: The webinar aims to inspire participants to challenge gender inequities and advocate for change. This includes recognizing biases, supporting women in their networks, and pushing for policies that promote equity. By fostering a community of advocates, the webinar seeks to drive sustained efforts towards achieving gender equity in leadership roles.

Short Description of the Event:

The Women's Cell, Jangipur College organized a webinar on 'Choose to Challenge Inequity in Leadership of Women in a COVID 19 World'. It was held on 08.03.2021, addressing the persistent gender disparities in leadership roles exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic. The event brought together experts, leaders, and advocates to discuss challenges, share experiences, and propose solutions to promote gender equity in leadership. The webinar commenced with a keynote address by Dr. Suparna Bhattacharya, who emphasized the critical need to address gender inequities in leadership, highlighting statistics that showed the disproportionate impact of the pandemic on women, particularly in leadership roles, and calling for concerted efforts to create more inclusive and equitable environments.

The first session featured a panel discussion with prominent women leaders from various sectors, including business, healthcare, education, and politics. Panellists shared their experiences and insights on the unique challenges they faced during the pandemic, such as increased care giving responsibilities, gender biases, and limited access to decision-making platforms. This discussion underscored the need for supportive policies and practices to enable women to thrive in leadership roles. The second session was an interactive workshop where participants brainstormed strategies to promote gender equity in leadership. Facilitators guided small group discussions on topics such as mentorship programs, flexible work arrangements, and diversity and inclusion training. Participants shared best practices and developed actionable plans to implement in their respective organizations. The third session presented case studies of successful women leaders who navigated the challenges of the pandemic effectively. Speakers highlighted their innovative approaches to leadership, such as leveraging technology for remote team management, fostering a culture of empathy and resilience, and advocating for gender-sensitive policies. These case studies served as inspiration and provided practical insights for aspiring women leaders. A lively Q&A session followed, where participants had the opportunity to ask questions and seek advice from the panellists and speakers. Topics ranged from overcoming imposter syndrome to balancing professional and personal responsibilities, with speakers providing valuable guidance and encouraging participants to persist in their efforts to challenge inequities.

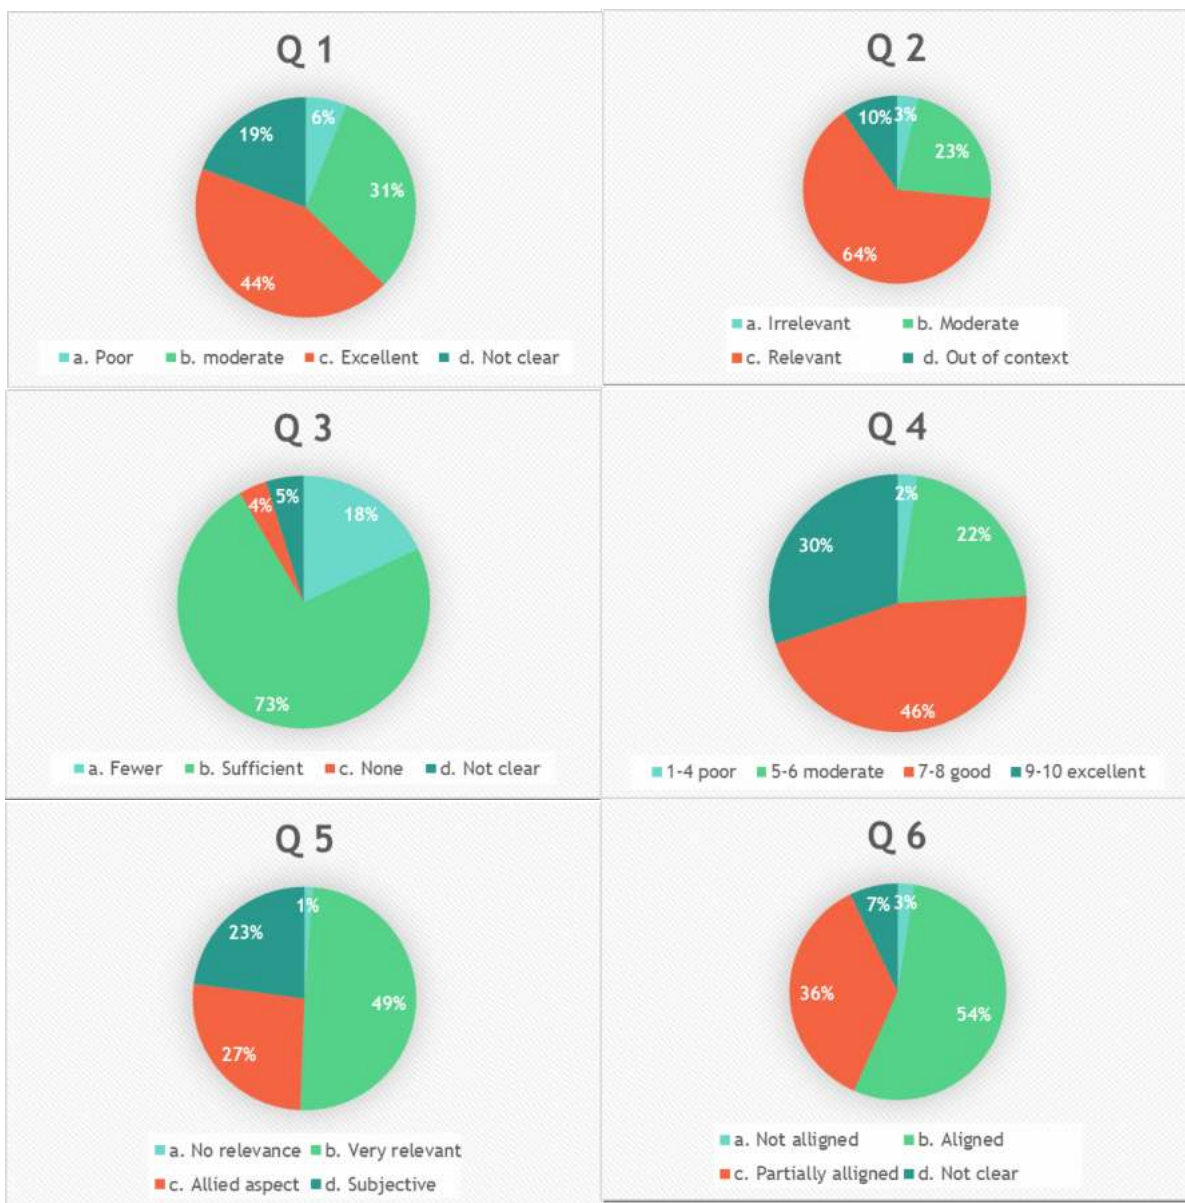

The webinar concluded with closing remarks by Dr. Aparupa Ghosh, who summarized the key takeaways and emphasized the importance of collective action to achieve gender equity in leadership. Participants were encouraged to continue the conversation, implement the strategies discussed, and support one another in challenging inequities. Recommendations from the webinar included implementing supportive policies, promoting mentorship programs, raising awareness through regular training, and encouraging women to advocate for themselves and others. Participants expressed appreciation for the insightful discussions and practical strategies shared during the webinar, highlighting the importance of continued dialogue and collaboration to address gender inequities in leadership.

Preface

In line with the various socio-cultural aspects revolving around the curriculum of students at Jangipur College the academic session of 2021-2022 was appropriately eventful with various online and offline sessions resourced by compatible and expertise speakers. Jangipur college was established in 1950 which currently functions with 17 disciplines from the stream of humanities, science and commerce. In view of the diverse subjects and their diversity in curriculum associated features the events held during the academic session were planned to cover political, social, cultural and scientific aspects of different disciplines.

The year commenced with the first session on Psychosocial Support for Covid Pandemic Condition. With rates of psychological discomfort and mental health issues rising, the community's mental health has suffered as a result of COVID-19 and the uncertainty and restrictions that followed. The effects of COVID-19 are likely to be more severe in those with persisting mental health conditions (EMHCs). The second event was a national webinar which was chiefly student-oriented and is being hosted by the Department of Political Science at Jangipur College, University of Kalyani. This occasion seeks to accomplish two goals related to our topic. First and foremost, it seeks to shed light on South Asia, one of our planet's most important geopolitical regions. Furthermore, it endeavours to comprehend the notion of "Nationalism" within the same framework. The third event was based on Student mentoring which is required to be well equipped with the identification of various issues and problems related to the socio-economic situations of the pupils. The next events were mostly associated with women empowerment, women existence in politics, history of theatre progression in international platforms and plant adaptation in challenging environment. Each event was comprehended by the participants with positive feedback and effective interactive sessions after the lectures of each resource person. The diverse areas of discussion seemed to be effective in promoting the holistic development of each subject area and nurture minds with their implications at the societal level

Objectives:

- To provide means for improving mental health in the wake of Covid 19
With rates of psychological discomfort and mental health issues rising, the community's mental health has suffered as a result of COVID-19 and the uncertainty and restrictions that followed. The effects of COVID-19 are likely to be more severe in those with persisting mental health conditions (EMHCs).
- To analyse, approach and act on instances of severe deteriorations in mental health
Major issues include the loss of in-person interactions, privacy concerns, a decline in nonverbal communication, technological problems, therapist fatigue, hazardous living situations, distraction, abbreviated session durations, concerns about client safety, and a decline in client dedication. People are becoming more and more aware of the importance of psychosocial support services in the recovery of mental health. Psychosocial support services, like clinical services, have also had to adapt to provide socially remote services under COVID-19.
- Initiative for approachable communication skills and psychological counselling Understanding how COVID-19 affects the use of psychosocial support services can help these services in three ways: a) preparing for pandemics and waves to come; b) modifying their services to a dynamic "COVID-normal" environment; and c) considering how the changes mandated by COVID-19 could be incorporated into a flexible array of person-centered service delivery options on a continuous basis.

Context: (Concept Note)

The community's mental health has suffered as a result of COVID-19 and the ambiguity and limitations that followed, with rates of psychological discomfort and mental health problems rising. Individuals who have enduring mental health issues (EMHCs) are probably going to be more susceptible to COVID-19's effects. EMHCs, also known as significant, severe, and persistent mental illnesses, are chronic disorders that lead to limitations in an individual's capacity to think clearly, function, maintain physical health, or manage their social and emotional well-being. Collectively, these factors are considered to make people with EMHCs more susceptible to COVID-19: greater rates of physical health disorders and lifestyle problems such as substance abuse and smoking; decreased access to physical health care; effects of pharmaceuticals on obesity; and shorter life expectancies overall. There are also issues that have been noted. Loss of face-to-face interaction, privacy issues, diminished nonverbal communication, technology issues, therapist exhaustion, dangerous living conditions, diversion, shortened session lengths, worries about client safety, and decreased client dedication are a few of these. Increasingly people are realizing the value of psychosocial support services in the rehabilitation of mental health. Similar to clinical services, psychosocial support services have also had to change in order to provide socially remote services under COVID-19. One significant change that has occurred is the addition of phone and teleconference-based support, also known as tele-support. To guarantee ongoing access, governments have increased financing aid for tele-support expansion. Comprehending the influence of COVID-19 on the utilization of psychosocial support, services can aid these services in three ways: a) getting ready for upcoming pandemics and waves; b) adapting their offerings to a constantly evolving "COVID-normal" environment; and c) thinking about how the modifications required by COVID-19 could be integrated into an adaptable range of person-centered service delivery choices on an ongoing basis. People who are living with EMHCs and use psychosocial support services can provide valuable insights into the relationship between COVID-19 and psychosocial support. The subjective experiences of service consumers are becoming more and more important to consider, while creating and providing person-centered services.

The event was organized with the encouragement and able guidance of the chief patrons - Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh (Teacher In-Charge) and IQAC of Jangipur College. The esteemed resource person Ms. Shrayashi Das addressed the various measures to improve the mental and social health of community suffering from the discomfort of Covid 19.

Objectives:

- To fulfil two-fold objectives within the domain of our subject
This national webinar is chiefly student-oriented and is being hosted by the Department of Political Science at Jangipur College, University of Kalyani. This occasion seeks to accomplish two goals related to our topic. First and foremost, it seeks to shed light on South Asia, one of our planet's most important geopolitical regions. Furthermore, it endeavours to comprehend the notion of "Nationalism" within the same framework.
- It aims to throw light on one of the most crucial geo- political spaces of our planet, i.e. South Asia.

In the light of this recent evolution, how is the concept of democracy evolving? This webinar's other goal is to examine the impact of ideas like nationalism and populism on democratic nations like the United States and India. Naturally, this also incorporates the principles of representative and electoral democracy.

- Attempts to understand the concept of 'Nationalism' within the same terrain

The goal of the webinar is to investigate the connection between nationalism and the idea of populism. How does the global rise of nationalism correspond to the emergence of populist forces? In this setting, the concept of the "Chain of Equivalency" gains significance. How are the populist forces methodically creating the "Chain of Equivalency"?

Context: (Concept Note)

This is a student-centric national webinar organised by the Department of Political Science, Jangipur College, University of Kalyani. This event aims to fulfil two-fold objectives within the domain of our subject. Firstly, it aims to throw light on one of the most crucial geopolitical spaces of our planet, i.e. South Asia. Secondly, it also attempts to understand the concept of 'Nationalism' within the same terrain. Not only the idea of nationalism acquires importance within any specific domestic politics but also, we have seen its resurgence across the globe. What factors explain its rise? How will the nation States of South Asia deal with this specific concept of Nationalism? These will be our crucial themes of discussion.

The webinar tries to explore the relationship between the concept of Populism and that of Nationalism. How does the rise of populist forces across the globe coincide with the rise of nationalism? The idea of 'Chain of equivalence' acquires importance in this context. The webinar also addresses how the populist forces are meticulously constructing the substance of 'Chain of equivalence'.

The idea of democracy is taking shape with regard to this current development. The objective of this webinar is also to look into the influence of these concepts like populism, nationalism within the domain of democratic countries like USA, India. This, of course, includes the operational logic of Electoral Democracy and Representative Democracy.

Lastly, the content of this webinar has been finalised in sync with the syllabus of the department of Political Science at UG level. In the last semester the students of the department are provided with a special paper on 'Understanding South Asia'. In this paper they not only study the geopolitical region of 'South Asia', but also, they are equipped with other theoretical as well as empirical tools of studying a region. Hence, this webinar will prepare the students according to the demand of the syllabus and will also enlighten them about the scope of studying the region like South Asia.

The event was organized with the encouragement and able guidance of the chief patron Dr Naba Kumar Ghosh (Teacher In-Charge) and IQAC of Jangipur College. The esteemed resource persons provided their valuable insights on the area of the workshop.

Objectives:

- To understand the situation of the student mental health
It is necessary to understand the situation of student's mental health and assess the needs for mentoring
- It aims to throw light on the various methods and skills on identifying the psychological traits of students
Student mentoring is required to be well equipped with the identification of various issues and problems related to the socio-economic situations of the pupils
- To discuss about the attempts to improve student mentoring in the institution
Mentoring students is associated with the wide discussions and their counselling in relation to various issues culminating in mental health

Context: (Concept Note)

Several young adults, in their emerging adulthood can experience a difficult and upsetting time in their lives. An age peak for the emergence of mental problems may be noted throughout this critical developmental time. Many students screen positive for at least one lifetime mental disorder, and also screen positive for at least one mental disorder, according to the World Mental Health International College Student (WMH-ICS) project of the WHO. Furthermore, there is meta-analytic evidence indicating that approximately a certain percentage of college students report having suicidal thoughts. Students most often have psychological issues and subclinical psychopathological signs. For instance, in a similar vein, students complain of stress, procrastination, perfectionism, low self-esteem, and test anxiety—all of which have been linked to mental illnesses. Headaches, stomach aches, and other psychosomatic symptoms are common complaints linked to increased internet use. Furthermore, riskier habits are more common among university students than healthy ones. Each of the aforementioned variables has the potential to have a detrimental impact on academic achievement and increase the risk of dropping out of college. Furthermore, university students' mental health has become worse as a result of the global COVID-19 epidemic, with over 50% reporting clinically significant levels of psychological symptoms like anxiety and depression. Consequently, there is a pressing need for more funding and support for prompt mental health care, which numerous UCSs are providing in various nations. Institutes and colleges must assess students' mental health and wellbeing, recognize and eliminate any treatment-related hurdles (such as financial or cultural constraints, preconceptions, and stereotypes), and offer specialized psychological interventions that are aimed at meeting their individual requirements.

In view of such problems the webinar was planned to train teachers on the intricacies of mentoring students with varied abilities. It is imperative to understand the methods of identifying the psychological traits among students and bring about counselling for their improvement of mental health.

Evidence of Success: (Feedbacks obtained online/offline reveal that the event was a success)

Challenges Faced:

1. To further enhance our understanding of pedagogy and microteaching

DEARTH OF MENTAL HEALTH PROFESSIONALS....

- "Every year somewhere between 700 and 1000 new healthcare professionals are trained in India. This is far below the required number to address the shortage. The availability of psychologists in India is also severely lacking, with only about 0.07 psychologists per 100,000 population. The required number of clinical psychologists in India is estimated to be around 20,000."

Objectives:

- To understand the situation of the exploitation of women.
One of the main causes of human exploitation at a global level that we see today are the systemic gender inequality and discrimination. It raises numerous questions as to why we still need to observe International Women's Day in 2024 even when we have made great progress, why gender equality is still a distant goal etc.
- It aims to throw light on the various situations in India and abroad on women's exploitation
Some estimates place the percentage of MSHT victims who are women and girls at around 70%. It should not be shocking to learn that, globally, women and girls make up the majority of victims of sexual exploitation (estimates range from 97 to 99%). This in no way lessens the suffering of boys, men, and individuals of diverse gender identities who are abused in a variety of ways, including through sexual exploitation.
- To discuss about the attempts to curb exploitation of children
All types of child exploitation, including forced labour, sexual exploitation, and domestic slavery, must be made illegal under strict laws. This is due to the fact that severe penalties for traffickers combined with an emphasis on victim's assistance can put an end to this horrible crime.

Context: (Concept Note)

Is the term “free” at all applicable to women? It’s a very important question, because from traditional period to post- modern period they are exploited in various ways. They are subject to economic and social exploitation. Also, they are the part of verbal exploitation. If we look at popular cultures, we will see various examples of women’s exploitation. They are not even aware about the fact that continuously they sell themselves in the advertisement world. For example, the seller uses a picture of a woman in his advertisement of night cream. The society never asks this question that instead of a man why a woman should be portrayed in this advertisement. As if this is the demand of society. Similarly, in work places they are exploited in numerous ways, such as their promotion depends on how they provide a better refreshment for their boss. This is the part of their work. It shows that they are not free. Those women who are housewives, always suffer from insecurity complex. They don’t accept the term “home maker” instead of the term “housewife”, because they have lack of confidence regarding themselves. They are not free in the sense that they are superstitious. That means financial stability does not provide any guaranty that women are free. Though some of them are financially stable, still they are unable to recognise themselves as competent human beings. So, in this situation it’s a big confusion that whether we are free or not.

According to some estimates, women and girls make about 70% of all MSHT victims. It should come as no surprise that, according to figures ranging from 97 to 99%, women and girls account for the majority of sexual exploitation victims worldwide. This does not lessen the experiences of boys, men, and people of different gender identities who are subjected to various forms of exploitation, including sexual exploitation. Although the data indicates that women and girls are disproportionately affected by these crimes, the stories that lie behind these numbers are much more complex. Globally, discrimination and systemic injustices have produced circumstances that increase vulnerability and deprive women and girls of agency. widespread gender norms and stereotypes; beliefs that women and girls are less valuable in society; normalization of gender-based violence; and a lack of control over one's financial resources.

Child abuse takes the form of child trafficking. It is the recruitment, conveyance, transfer, harbouring, or receiving of a child for the purpose of exploitation. It encompasses the exploitation of children for financial gain or sexual gain. Children may be trafficked to work in mines, factories, or homes, sold, unlawfully adopted, coerced into early marriages, pushed into prostitution, or recruited into the armed forces. They are subjected to severe types of abuse in these settings, and they are not allowed to receive basic services or have their fundamental human rights met. Because they frequently lack fundamental legal status and social networks, trafficked children's predicament is essentially "invisible."

In India, women experience severe abuse and discrimination, which lowers their social status. Since ancient times, there has been discrimination against women, which has had an impact on their lives. According to the most recent data given by the National Crime Records Bureau (the government organization that maintains track of the country's crime rate), crimes against women have more than doubled over the past ten years, indicating the worst conditions for women in India. There are 848 women who are either harassed, raped, or killed after being abducted every single day; 26 crimes against women are reported every hour, or one complaint every two minutes. A portion are sold to Indian traffickers. Examples include cohabitation with close relatives and sexual assault by them.

Evidence of Success: (Feedbacks obtained online/offline reveal that the event was a success)

Challenges Faced:

1. Paucity of Funds
2. Lack of Auditorium
3. Data expenditure is a deterrent for the students

About the Webinar

This is a state-level webinar on the exploitation of women and children. This webinar will focus on the social, political, economic and sexual exploitation of women and children –an exploitation which is almost an omnipresent and perpetual phenomenon in the world. This webinar will provide us with a number of valuable perspectives on the condition of woman and child exploitation and will also address some crucial issues on the socio-political framework of the humanity. It is ardently hoped that this webinar will add erudite knowledge to the already existing academic field.

EVENT TITLE: NATIONAL LEVEL WEBINAR: “THE PREDICAMENT OF DALIT WOMEN: CONTEMPORARY SOCIO-POLITICAL AND CULTURAL PERSPECTIVES”

ORGANIZED BY: Department of English and Equal Opportunity Cell, in Collaboration with IQAC Jangipur College.

DATE: 04/10/2021, TIME: 9:45 AM

ONLINE LINK: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=FRAJs0tAbSQ>

RESOURCE PERSONS:

Dr. Debi Chatterjee, Retired Professor, Jadavpur University, Professor Shipra Mukherjee, West Bengal State University, Manjural Pradeep, National Convenor, Dalit Human Rights Defenders Network India

OBJECTIVE:

1. To analyze the contemporary socio-political challenges faced by Dalit women in India:

This objective aimed to critically examine the current socio-political landscape affecting Dalit women, focusing on systemic discrimination, access to resources, and political representation. Speakers analyzed legislative frameworks and policy gaps that perpetuate inequalities.

2. To explore the cultural perspectives influencing the status and rights of Dalit women:

This objective sought to delve into cultural narratives and representations of Dalit women in literature, media, and popular discourse. It aimed to highlight how cultural stereotypes and biases impact societal perceptions and influence the socio-economic status of Dalit women.

3. To suggest actionable strategies for improving the socio-economic conditions of Dalit women:

This objective focused on proposing practical measures and policy recommendations to enhance the socio-economic empowerment of Dalit women. Discussions centered on advocacy, community initiatives, and legal reforms necessary to achieve equality and social justice.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The National Level Webinar titled “The Predicament of Dalit Women: Contemporary Socio-political and Cultural Perspectives” was organized by the Department of English and Equal Opportunity Cell at Jangipur College on October 4, 2021. The webinar aimed to delve into the multifaceted challenges encountered by Dalit women in India today. It brought together distinguished speakers including Dr. Debi Chatterjee, Professor Shipra Mukherjee, and Manjula Pradeep, who shared their insights on the socio-political and cultural dimensions impacting Dalit women's lives.

The webinar commenced with an introductory session outlining the historical context and current realities faced by Dalit women, highlighting systemic discrimination and socio-economic disparities. Dr. Debi Chatterjee presented a critical analysis of policy frameworks and legal provisions affecting Dalit women's rights, emphasizing the need for inclusive reforms.

Professor Shipra Mukherjee explored the cultural narratives and representations of Dalit women in literature and media, shedding light on the stereotypes and biases perpetuated by mainstream discourses. Her presentation underscored the importance of cultural representation in shaping societal perceptions and advocating for social justice.

Manjula Pradeep, as the National Convenor of Dalit Human Rights Defenders Network India, concluded the session with a call to action, urging participants to actively engage in advocacy and support initiatives aimed at empowering Dalit women. The webinar concluded with a lively Q&A session, where participants raised pertinent questions and received insightful responses from the panelists.

The workshop was well-received among the participants, mainly the students, expressing their appreciation for the comprehensive and engaging presentation. The knowledge gained from the webinar enhanced the confidence of the attendees and equipped them with the social tools needed to counter adversarial behavior presented towards Dalit women.

Concept Note

The plurality of categories is often unrecognized when one speaks of 'women'. This in itself seems to be an insurmountable 'predicament' despite the buzz created by Spivak's "Can the Subaltern Speak?", way back in 1983. Women are either reduced to an indifferent homogenous category or their identities are so diluted, their voices so muted that their sense of agency, if any, gets annihilated within the 'normative' discourses of socio-political and cultural dynamics operative within the nation-state. Goes without saying, the hegemonic power structures, by and large, stem from the grand narrative of patriarchy as dreams of egalitarian home, society and state literally turn out to be mid-summer night's nightmare. Such unequal life becomes all the more blighted if the woman falls into the lowest rung of the social order. Or is it the other way round?

Our precise objective in organizing this webinar is to look deep into these and such other topics and in choosing to focus on the plight of the Dalit women we are merely endeavouring to condense the oceanic history of discrimination and oppression to fit within the rubric of a one-day webinar.

EVENT TITLE: NATIONAL LEVEL WEBINAR - “THE PATRIARCHAL PANDEMIC: COVID-19 AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ON WOMEN IN INDIA – A SOCIAL ANATHEMA”

ORGANIZED BY: Women's Cell in Association with IQAC, Jangipur College.

DATE: 05/10/2021,

TIME: 9:45 AM

ONLINE LINK: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Rv5kusFD2a8>

RESOURCE PERSONS:

Dr. Hena Singh, Associate Professor at Miranda House, University of Delhi, Dr. Sabiha Hussain, Professor at Jamia Millia Islamia, Dr. Seema Mathur, Professor at Kalindi College, University of Delhi.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Women in Workforce - The Impact of Lockdown:

This objective aims to analyze how pandemic-induced lockdowns have affected women's participation in the workforce in India. It explores challenges faced by women, adaptations made by them and employers, and discusses potential long-term implications for gender equality in the workplace.

2. Domestic Violence - A Violation of Women’s Human Rights:

This objective addresses the alarming increase in cases of domestic violence against women during the Covid-19 pandemic in India. It examines the root causes, impact on victims, and the response of law enforcement and support systems. The objective also discusses strategies for prevention and legal frameworks aimed at protecting women's rights.

3. Covid-19 Pandemic - A Feminist Perspective:

Providing a feminist critique of the Covid-19 pandemic, this objective examines its impact on various aspects of women's lives in India. It explores issues such as healthcare disparities, economic vulnerabilities, and shifts in gender roles exacerbated by the pandemic. The objective advocates for feminist approaches in policy-making and crisis response to address these challenges.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

Jangipur College's Department of English hosted a pivotal national level webinar titled “The Patriarchal Pandemic: Covid-19 and Domestic Violence on Women in India – A Social Anathema” on September 10, 2021. The event, conducted online, attracted 103 participants keen on exploring the intersection of the Covid-19 pandemic and its impact on women's lives in India, particularly focusing on issues of domestic violence and women in the workforce.

Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge of Jangipur College, inaugurated the webinar, emphasizing the urgency of addressing gender-based issues exacerbated by the pandemic. Each resource person, renowned for their expertise in gender studies and social sciences, delivered insightful presentations aligned with the webinar's objectives.

Dr. Hena Singh from Miranda House, University of Delhi, addressed the first objective on the impact of lockdowns on women in the workforce. Drawing on her extensive research in sociology and gender studies, Dr. Singh highlighted disparities in employment opportunities and the caregiving burden disproportionately borne by women during the pandemic. Her presentation underscored the need for inclusive policies to support women's economic empowerment and ensure workplace equality.

Dr. Sabiha Hussain, a distinguished Professor at Jamia Millia Islamia, delved into the disturbing rise in domestic violence cases during the Covid-19 lockdowns, addressing the second objective. With expertise in human rights and law, Dr. Hussain discussed the legal and social dimensions of domestic violence, emphasizing the critical role of intervention strategies and support services in protecting women's rights and ensuring their safety.

Dr. Seema Mathur, Professor at Kalindi College, University of Delhi, provided a feminist perspective on the Covid-19 pandemic, exploring its broader impact on women's lives in India. Using feminist theory and empirical evidence, Dr. Mathur analyzed healthcare disparities, economic vulnerabilities, and shifts in gender dynamics exacerbated by the pandemic. Her presentation advocated for gender-sensitive policy responses that prioritize women's rights and well-being in crisis situations.

The webinar concluded with a robust Q&A session that received 102 feedback responses, reflecting the participants' engagement and appreciation for the in-depth discussions. Attendees expressed a collective commitment to advocating for gender equality and combating domestic violence, underscoring the webinar's significance in raising awareness and fostering dialogue on pressing social issues affecting women in India today.

Concept Note

The Covid-19 pandemic is turning out to be a 'black swan' (Taleb, 2001) event in human history. It is extraordinary in its rarity and is spelling disaster in the lives of people not only because it is economic but also because it is having repercussions in all aspects of human lives. In addition, women are most disproportionately affected due to this humongous crisis because Covid-19 pandemic has made women all the more vulnerable, isolated, discriminated and repressed. Some of the most effective tools to contain the spread of the virus across are lockdown measures and the concomitant self-isolation. But these measures are also turning out to be coercive means in the hands of male perpetrators of violence. The lockdown measures have exacerbated those factors which contribute to domestic violence and, to make things worse, limited the survivor's chance to seek help and redress. Lockdown has restricted the legal authorities and volunteers who intervene and respond to the victims. However, while women all over the world are being exploited and, more often than not, find themselves at the receiving end of intimidating atrocities and crime, South Asian women are most affected due to lockdown and quarantine measures. The reason being the glaring absence of strategies to counterbalance the limitations imposed by lockdown in the nations of South Asia.

In this webinar the Women's Cell, Jangipur College, focuses on domestic violence on women in India amidst Covid-19 and wishes to explore redressing mechanisms and policy responses to domestic violence which the pandemic has unleashed on women. For all incidents, which fall within the purview of such violence, reflect a disconcerting unwillingness to respect women's agency on the part of both the society and that of the nation. This webinar also intends to explore domestic violence within the broader framework of gender inequality that can only be dealt with comprehensive and multi-sectoral approach. The culture of exemption needs to be challenged as we also see women themselves rationalizing domestic violence in many instances. It is our conviction that thwarted voices need a platform which can address these issues and come up with a scholarly discussion inspiring policy advocacy. Hence this webinar.

EVENT TITLE: INTERNATIONAL LEVEL WEBINAR: “PLANT RESPONSES TO ABIOTIC STRESS”

ORGANIZED BY: Department of Botany in Association IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 09/10/2021

TIME: 10:00am

ONLINE LINK: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=XnozoG8ddwo>

RESOURCE PERSONS: Dr. Zahed Hossain, Professor, University of Kalyani, Dr. Ravi Gupta, Assistant Professor, Kookmin University, South Korea.

OBJECTIVES:

- 1. To explore the mechanisms of plant responses to various abiotic stresses such as drought, salinity, and extreme temperatures.
- 2. To understand the role of molecular biology and biotechnology in enhancing plant stress tolerance.
- 3. To discuss current research trends and innovations in the field of plant stress physiology.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The webinar on "Plant Responses to Abiotic Stress" organized by the Department of Botany at Jangipur College featured insightful discussions by renowned experts in the field. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge, inaugurated the event, setting the stage for an exploration into cutting-edge research on plant stress responses.

Dr. Zahed Hossain from the University of Kalyani addressed the first objective, focusing on the intricate role of microRNAs (miRNAs) in mediating plant responses to abiotic stressors. His expertise in plant molecular biology and stress physiology provided a comprehensive overview of how miRNAs regulate gene expression under adverse environmental conditions. Dr. Hossain's presentation delved into recent advancements in understanding the signaling pathways and genetic networks orchestrated by miRNAs, offering valuable insights into potential applications for enhancing stress tolerance in crops.

Dr. Ravi Gupta, Assistant Professor at Kookmin University, South Korea, took center stage to elucidate the molecular mechanisms underlying the freezing tolerance of Hippophae rhamnoides, a Himalayan shrub renowned for its resilience to extreme cold. Drawing from his expertise in plant ecophysiology and biotechnology, Dr. Gupta's session provided a detailed analysis of the physiological and biochemical adaptations that enable H. rhamnoides to thrive in harsh mountainous climates. His research highlighted the importance of understanding plant adaptations at the molecular level for developing strategies to mitigate the impacts of climate change on global agriculture.

The webinar attracted a total of 307 participants, including academics, researchers, and students, reflecting the keen interest in advancing knowledge on plant stress responses. Feedback from 297 participants underscored the event's success in fostering intellectual discourse and knowledge exchange among attendees.

Overall, the webinar not only underscored the significance of interdisciplinary research but also underscored the critical role of collaborative efforts in addressing global challenges such as climate change and food security. By bridging scientific expertise from different geographical regions, the event facilitated a deeper understanding of how plants adapt and respond to environmental stressors, paving the way for future innovations in agricultural sustainability and resilience.

EVENT TITLE: NATIONAL LEVEL WEBINAR: “THEATRONS: INTRODUCING THE THEATRES OF GREECE, ROME AND INDIA”.

ORGANIZED BY: Department of English in Association with IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 30/10/2021

TIME: 10:30am

ONLINE LINK: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=edGuGjZ5OYQ>

RESOURCE PERSONS: Dr. Nirban Manna, Assistant Professor in English, IIT Dhanbad; Mr. Jyotishka Ranjan Sarkar, Assistant Professor in Education, BLET Training College, WB; Dr. Avishek Deb, Assistant Professor in English, GLA University, UP

OBJECTIVES:

1. Importance of Greek and Latin Literature and Drama:

Greek and Latin literature and drama have profoundly influenced Western cultural traditions, particularly shaping modern conceptions of theatre, including the genres of tragedy and comedy. The specific performance modes developed in ancient Athens and Rome during their respective periods significantly molded these dramatic forms.

2. Impact of Classical Indian Theatre:

The discourse explores the influence of Graeco-Roman traditions on Classical Indian theatre, examining debates about the introduction of Greek plays in ancient India and contrasting views emphasizing the purity and indigenous roots of Indian theatrical traditions.

3. Contemporary Indian Theatre Dynamics:

Post-Independence Indian theatre reflects a dual challenge of decolonization and modernity. It engages in reinterpretations of indigenous traditions while also navigating transformations influenced by Western cultural influences. This contemporary dynamic is characterized by an "ambidexterity" where Indian cultural forms negotiate between subaltern and dominant cultural identities.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The national level webinar titled "Theatrons: Introducing the Theatres of Greece, Rome and India" organized by the Department of English at Jangipur College aimed to delve into the rich heritage of theatrical traditions across ancient civilizations and their influence on contemporary theatre dynamics in India. The event attracted 98 participants, who actively engaged in discussions and shared valuable feedback.

The inaugural talk was delivered by Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge of Jangipur College, setting the stage for the exploration of three distinct yet interconnected themes. Dr. Nirban Manna from IIT Dhanbad commenced the session by elucidating the profound importance of Greek and Latin literature and drama. Drawing on his expertise in English literature, Dr. Manna underscored how the ancient Greek and Roman theatrical practices laid the groundwork for the development of Western dramatic forms. Participants gained insights into how these classical traditions continue to influence contemporary global theatre.

Following Dr. Manna's presentation, Mr. Jyotishka Ranjan Sarkar, an Assistant Professor in Education at BLET Training College, WB, delved into the impact of classical Indian theatre. With a focus on Sanskrit drama and other indigenous theatrical forms, Mr. Sarkar highlighted their cultural significance and enduring impact on Indian artistic expressions. His discussion provided a nuanced perspective on how classical Indian theatre has contributed to the socio-cultural fabric of the nation.

Lastly, Dr. Avishek Deb from GLA University, UP, brought the discussion to contemporary Indian theatre dynamics. As an expert in English studies, Dr. Deb explored the evolution of Indian theatre from its traditional roots to its current trends. He emphasized the role of theatre in reflecting and shaping societal narratives, addressing issues pertinent to modern Indian society through innovative theatrical practices.

The webinar concluded with an interactive Q&A session that received 97 feedback responses, reflecting the participants' engagement and appreciation for the diverse insights shared by the resource persons. Overall, the event successfully achieved its objectives of fostering a deeper understanding of global theatrical traditions and their relevance in contemporary contexts.

Concept Note

Greek and Latin literature and drama have been central and formative components of the Western cultural tradition and modern conceptions of theatre in general, as of "tragedy" and "comedy" as particular dramatic forms are indelibly shaped by the specific performance modes that evolved during the sixth to the fourth centuries BC in Athens and during the third to the first centuries BC in Rome. And as we simultaneously look into what we conveniently phrase as the Classical Indian theatre, we are equally rapt by the meticulous décors and credos of Bharata's Natyasastra which suffuse the works of a Kalidas or a Sudraka.

Concomitantly, the discourse of Graeco-Roman influence on Classical Indian theatre comes to occupy us as we oscillate between the implications of Prof. M. L. Varad Pande's contention that a Greek-play was actually staged in Alexander's military camp on the bank of the Jhelum in 326 B.C on the one hand, and the verdicts in favour of 'purity' of Indian theatre voiced chiefly by Prof. Baldev Uppadhyay and Dr. Hemendra Nath Das Gupta, on the other.

Interestingly, post-Independence Indian theatre progressively problematizes the ambits of Indian theatre since the need to de-colonize theatre translates predominantly into reinterpretations of indigenous traditions as the "roots movement" takes centerstage (Mee, Theatre of Roots 11). But also since in the Indian cultural forms, the issue of modernity remains inseparable from the transformations brought about by Western influences, subject position in the cultural systems of the nation by and large displays an "ambidexterity" of neither belonging exclusively to "a subaltern" nor to "a dominant culture" yet partaking to both "with equal effectiveness" (Banerjee, "The Critique of Western Modernity" 56).

The webinar's objective is to delve deep into these and such other tropes of Graeco-Roman and pan-Indian Indian theatrical representations so as to supplement the largely text-centred study of the undergraduate students with critical inputs which would enable them to better grasp the dramatic texts situated as they are within their diverse and complex contexts.

EVENT TITLE: STATE LEVEL SEMINAR ON "WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP AND GLOBAL POLITICS"

ORGANIZED BY: Women's Cell in Collaboration with IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 08/03/2022

TIME: 10:30am

RESOURCE PERSONS: Prof. Samanta Biswas, Sanskrit College and University; Dr. Antara Ray, Presidency University; Dr. Kaushik Chattopadhyay, Syed Nurul Hassan College, Farakka

OBJECTIVES:

1. Explore the historical and contemporary roles of women leaders:

This objective aims to examine the evolution of women's leadership roles globally, from historical figures to contemporary political leaders, analyzing their impact and challenges faced. Understanding the achievements of figures such as Indira Gandhi and Angela Merkel provides insight into the evolution of global politics.

2. Women and Political Participation in context to India:

Focusing on India, this objective explores the barriers and advancements in women's political participation, discussing policy frameworks, electoral representation, and societal attitudes. Recent legislative initiatives like the Women's Reservation Bill highlight ongoing efforts to enhance gender equality in governance.

3. Women Empowerment and Political Culture:

Addressing the intersection of women's empowerment and political culture, this objective evaluates how political systems and cultural norms impact women's leadership and empowerment efforts globally and in India. Examining grassroots movements and international campaigns like #MeToo underscores the importance of cultural context in shaping women's political agency.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

Jangipur College's IQAC and Women's Cell organized a state-level seminar on "Women's Leadership and Global Politics" on March 8th, 2022, attracting 126 participants eager to explore the evolving role of women in leadership positions and political arenas. The seminar, held online, featured distinguished speakers renowned for their expertise in gender studies, political science, and historical research.

Mr. Abdul Quader, President of the Governing Body, delivered the introductory speech, emphasizing the college's commitment to fostering discussions on gender equity and leadership. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge of Jangipur College, welcomed participants, setting the stage for insightful discussions.

Prof. Samanta Biswas from Sanskrit College and University commenced the seminar by delving into the historical and contemporary roles of women leaders. Drawing on her expertise in historical studies, Prof. Biswas highlighted influential women leaders across different epochs and regions, discussing their contributions and challenges in shaping political landscapes. Her presentation underscored the significance of historical context in understanding current debates on women's leadership. Exploring the complexities of leadership transitions, she highlighted the cultural and structural barriers that have shaped women's roles in global politics.

Dr. Antara Ray, from Presidency University, focused on women's political participation in the context of India, addressing the second objective. With expertise in political science, Dr. Ray analyzed the progress made and persistent challenges faced by women in Indian politics. She explored electoral dynamics, policy initiatives, and societal perceptions affecting women's representation and influence in governance. Dr. Ray's presentation advocated for inclusive political processes that empower women to actively participate and lead in decision-making roles. She discussed recent reforms and their potential to enhance women's political representation, emphasizing the importance of public engagement in shaping gender-inclusive policies.

Dr. Kaushik Chattopadhyay, Professor at Syed Nurul Hassan College, Farakka, concluded the seminar by discussing women empowerment and political culture. Leveraging his background in social sciences, Dr. Chattopadhyay examined how political cultures and societal norms shape women's empowerment efforts globally and within India. He explored strategies to enhance gender equality in political institutions and promote inclusive political cultures that support women's leadership aspirations. Drawing parallels with international trends, he highlighted the role of education and advocacy in fostering gender-inclusive political environments.

About the Seminar

This is a state-level seminar on women's leadership in the context of world politics. World politics is dominated by men till date, but participation and representation of women in direct politics both at the national and global level is not up to the mark. Such an under-representation of women in politics is caused by a number of obstacles including gender discrimination, poverty, social marginalisation etc. But despite all these socio-political and economic barriers, contemporary history of the world has witnessed a few prominent women figures whose contribution to both the regional and global politics is no less paramount. This seminar will focus on the role and performance of women leaders in international political arena beyond their regional spheres. This seminar will also provide us with a number of valuable perspectives on women leadership and address some crucial issues like the limitations, challenges and barriers of female leaders in their political life. The seminar will throw some light, too, on the dynamics of feminist politics, a politics which has furnished the women leaders throughout the world with an intellectual vigour to confront all-round patriarchal set-up of society. It is ardently hoped that this seminar will add erudite knowledge to the problematics and prospects of women leadership on a global scale and serve as a platform for the future women leaders.

EVENT TITLE: EVENT ON POSH TRAINING

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 20.04.2022, TIME: 12 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Ananda Gopal Maity, Advocate, LLB, MBA (HR), AGMC Legal & HR Services, LPO & HRO, Kolkata & Bengaluru

OBJECTIVES:

1. Increase Awareness of POSH Act:

Educate participants about the Prevention of Sexual Harassment (POSH) Act, 2013, including its provisions, objectives, and the legal framework established to prevent and address sexual harassment in the workplace. The aim is to enhance understanding of rights, responsibilities, and procedures under the POSH Act to create a safe and respectful environment.

2. Empower Participants with Knowledge and Skills:

Equip participants with the necessary knowledge and skills to identify, prevent, and respond to instances of sexual harassment. This includes training on recognizing different forms of harassment, understanding the complaint mechanism, and learning effective strategies to support victims and promote gender sensitivity.

3. Promote a Culture of Respect and Inclusivity:

Foster a culture of respect, inclusivity, and zero tolerance towards sexual harassment within the college and beyond. Encourage participants to become advocates for positive change, ensuring that they contribute to creating a safe and supportive environment for all individuals by promoting respectful behaviour and standing against any form of harassment.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On April 20, 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Jangipur College organized an impactful event on POSH (Prevention of Sexual Harassment) Training. This event aimed to raise awareness about the Prevention of Sexual Harassment Act, 2013, and educate participants on creating a safe and respectful environment both within the college and in their future workplaces. The training session was held at Jangipur College, with a significant turnout of 110 participants, reflecting the college community's commitment to addressing this critical issue.

The resource person for the event was Mr. Ananda Gopal Maity, an esteemed advocate with an LLB and an MBA in Human Resources. As the Managing Director of AGMC Legal & HR Services, Mr. Maity brought extensive expertise in legal and HR issues, ensuring a comprehensive and insightful training session.

The event began with an overview of the POSH Act, detailing its provisions, objectives, and the legal framework designed to combat sexual harassment in the workplace. Mr. Maity emphasized the importance of understanding one's rights and responsibilities under the Act, ensuring that participants were well-versed in the mechanisms available for addressing grievances.

A key component of the training was empowering participants with the knowledge and skills necessary to recognize, prevent, and respond to instances of sexual harassment. Mr. Maity provided practical examples and engaged participants in interactive discussions, helping them identify different forms of harassment and understand the appropriate steps to take if they encounter or witness such behaviour. This segment of the training was crucial in building confidence among participants to act effectively and supportively in real-life situations.

The training session also focused on fostering a culture of respect and inclusivity. Mr. Maity highlighted the role of every individual in promoting gender sensitivity and standing against any form of harassment. He encouraged participants to become advocates for positive change, ensuring that they contribute to creating a safe and supportive environment for all.

Overall, the POSH training event was a resounding success, equipping participants with essential knowledge and skills while promoting a culture of respect and zero tolerance towards sexual harassment. The IQAC of Jangipur College demonstrated its dedication to the wellbeing of its community, reinforcing the importance of legal awareness and proactive measures in safeguarding individual dignity and rights.

PREFACE

The academic session of 2022-23 at Jangipur College was marked by an array of enriching events and activities aimed at fostering holistic development, academic excellence, and social awareness among students. The college's commitment to providing a well-rounded education was evident through the diverse range of events organized by various departments and units, including the IQAC, NSS, and NCC.

One of the highlights of the year was the "Orientation and Social Media Awareness Training," which emphasized the importance of responsible digital citizenship in today's interconnected world. Complementing this was the "Online Workshop on Research Methodology: Discover New Horizon of Research," aimed at equipping students with essential research skills and methodologies. The "Seminar on Job Opportunity" in collaboration with Reliance Infocom Limited provided invaluable insights into the current job market and employment strategies.

Technological proficiency was addressed through the "Workshop on Laptop Services and Repairing-cum-Teaching of Its Use," ensuring that students are well-versed in practical IT skills. Literary and cultural enrichment was fostered through events like the "Offline Interactive Workshop on 'Kobir Mukhomukhi: Kabita Path o Alochana'" and the "Extension Lecture: 'Faniswarnath Renuer Moila Anchal: Path o Pratikriya,'" which celebrated regional literature and provided a platform for critical discussion.

The academic rigor of the college was showcased in the "38th Annual Conference of Paschimbanga Itihas Samsad," where scholars from various institutions gathered to discuss historical research and findings. Social justice and critical thinking were highlighted in the "Special Lecture and Interaction on 'Reading Annihilation of Caste' - Ambedkar Jayanti, 2023" and the "Online Invited Talk: 'Death Penalty and Rape: A Critique.'"

Additionally, the college organized events focusing on social movements and philosophical thought, such as the "Online Invited Talk on 'Matua Movement in Bengal'" and "Online Invited Talk: 'Karl Marx on Alienation and Humanism.'" These sessions provided students with a broader understanding of socio-political dynamics and philosophical inquiries.

Practical safety training was not overlooked, with the event on "Operation of the Fire Extinguisher (Type A, B, C & E) and General Awareness on Fire Fighting," which underscored the importance of preparedness and safety in emergency situations. The college also held another session of "Orientation and Social Media Awareness Training," reinforcing the critical role of digital literacy.

Each of these events contributed to the rich tapestry of learning experiences at Jangipur College, reflecting our dedication to nurturing informed, responsible, and well-rounded individuals. This report documents the objectives, activities, and outcomes of these events, showcasing the college's ongoing efforts to provide an exceptional educational environment

EVENT TITLE: “OPERATION OF THE FIRE EXTINGUISHER (TYPE A, B, C & E) AND GENERAL AWARENESS ON FIRE FIGHTING”

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 13.07.2022 & 14.07.2022, TIME: 2 pm to 5 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Malay Kumar Mondal on behalf of M/S. MST Enterprise, Kolkata-9

OBJECTIVES:

1. Enhance Fire Safety Awareness and Preparedness:

- To educate and train teaching and non-teaching staff on the different types of fire extinguishers (Type A, B, C, and E) and their appropriate usage.
- To increase general awareness about fire safety protocols and preventive measures to ensure a safe working environment at Jangipur College.

2. Develop Practical Fire Fighting Skills:

- To provide hands-on experience in operating various fire extinguishers and other firefighting equipment.
- To empower the staff with the necessary skills to effectively respond to fire emergencies, minimizing potential risks and damage.

3. Promote a Culture of Safety and Responsibility: • To instil a culture of safety and responsibility among the staff, emphasizing the importance of being vigilant and proactive in fire prevention and response.

- To ensure that all participants are well-informed about emergency evacuation procedures and the roles they play in maintaining a secure campus environment.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On July 13 and 14, 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Jangipur College organized a comprehensive workshop titled “Operation of the Fire Extinguisher (Type A, B, C & E) and General Awareness on Fire Fighting.” The event, held at the college campus, aimed to enhance fire safety awareness and preparedness among the teaching and non-teaching staff. Mr. Malay Kumar Mondal, representing M/S. MST Enterprise from Kolkata, served as the resource person for the workshop, sharing his extensive knowledge and practical expertise in fire safety.

The two-day workshop witnessed active participation from 34 staff members who were keen to learn about fire safety protocols and the operation of different types of fire extinguishers.

The sessions began with an in-depth introduction to fire safety, covering the causes of fire, types of fires, and the importance of understanding fire classifications. Mr. Mondal emphasized the significance of prompt and appropriate responses to fire emergencies to prevent escalation and ensure safety.

Participants were trained on the usage of various fire extinguishers, including Type A (for ordinary combustibles), Type B (for flammable liquids), Type C (for electrical fires), and Type E (for equipment fires). Mr. Mondal provided detailed demonstrations on how to handle and operate each type of extinguisher effectively. The hands-on training sessions allowed participants to practice using the extinguishers, ensuring they gained confidence and competence in their operation.

In addition to extinguisher training, the workshop also covered general firefighting techniques and safety measures. Mr. Mondal discussed the importance of having an evacuation plan, recognizing fire hazards, and implementing preventive measures to reduce fire risks. Participants were taught how to assess fire situations and make informed decisions during emergencies.

The workshop concluded with an interactive session where participants could ask questions and clarify their doubts about fire safety practices. Feedback from the attendees was overwhelmingly positive, with many appreciating the practical approach and the valuable knowledge gained from the workshop.

Overall, the “Operation of the Fire Extinguisher (Type A, B, C & E) and General Awareness on Fire Fighting” workshop successfully equipped the staff of Jangipur College with essential fire safety skills and knowledge. The event underscored the college’s commitment to fostering a safe and secure environment for its community, emphasizing the importance of preparedness and proactive safety measures.

EVENT TITLE: ORIENTATION AND SOCIAL MEDIA AWARENESS TRAINING

ORGANIZED BY: NSS Jangipur College Unit

DATE: 5.8.2022, TIME: 12 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Agnimeel Das, Youth Officer, Regional Directorate of NSS, Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports, Govt. of India

OBJECTIVES:

1. Enhance Understanding of Social Media Dynamics:

To educate participants about the various social media platforms, their functionalities, and the impact they can have on personal and professional lives. This includes understanding both the positive aspects and potential risks associated with social media usage.

2. Promote Responsible and Safe Social Media Practices:

To raise awareness about online safety, privacy settings, and the importance of maintaining a positive digital footprint. This objective aims to equip participants with knowledge and strategies to protect themselves from cyber threats and inappropriate content.

3. Encourage Community Engagement and Digital Citizenship:

To foster a sense of digital citizenship by encouraging participants to use social media for community building, advocacy, and promoting positive social change. This includes understanding the ethical implications of their online behaviour and the role they can play in creating a supportive online community.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On August 5, 2022, the National Service Scheme (NSS) unit of Jangipur College organized an "Orientation and Social Media Awareness Training" program. The event took place at Jangipur College in the Murshidabad district of West Bengal and featured Mr. Agnimeel Das, Youth Officer from the Regional Directorate of NSS, Ministry of Youth Affairs & Sports, Government of India, as the resource person. A total of 125 participants, comprising enthusiastic students and faculty members, attended the event.

The primary aim of the training was to enhance participants' understanding of social media dynamics and promote responsible online behaviour. The program began with an insightful session led by Mr. Agnimeel Das, who highlighted the multifaceted nature of social media platforms, their functionalities, and their profound impact on modern communication and society. He emphasized the dual nature of social media, outlining both its benefits and the potential risks it poses to users.

One of the key objectives of the training was to promote safe and responsible social media practices. Mr. Das provided comprehensive guidance on online safety measures, including the importance of managing privacy settings, recognizing and avoiding cyber threats, and maintaining a positive digital footprint. Participants learned practical strategies to protect their personal information and navigate the digital landscape securely.

The program also focused on encouraging community engagement and digital citizenship. Mr. Das inspired participants to use social media as a tool for positive social change, community building, and advocacy. Through interactive discussions and real-life examples, he illustrated how responsible digital behaviour can contribute to creating supportive and inclusive online communities. Participants were encouraged to reflect on the ethical implications of their online actions and understand their role in fostering a healthy digital environment.

Interactive activities and discussions formed a significant part of the training, allowing participants to share their experiences and perspectives on social media use. These activities reinforced the learning objectives and facilitated a deeper understanding of the topics covered.

The "Orientation and Social Media Awareness Training" was a highly informative and impactful event. It successfully equipped participants with the knowledge and skills needed to navigate social media responsibly, protect their online identities, and contribute positively to the digital world. The NSS unit of Jangipur College demonstrated commendable initiative in organizing this training, underlining the importance of digital literacy and responsible online behaviour in today's interconnected world.

EVENT TITLE: ONLINE WORKSHOP ON RESEARCH METHODOLOGY: "DISCOVER NEW HORIZON OF RESEARCH"

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 06.08.2022, TIME: 2 pm

ONLINE LINKS: <https://meet.google.com/raw-znei-rop>

RESOURCE PERSON: Dr. Surajit C. Mukhopadhyay, Professor and Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences, Sister Nivedita University, Kolkata, West Bengal.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Enhance Understanding of Research Methodology:

To provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of the principles and practices of research methodology. This includes an exploration of various research designs, data collection techniques, and analytical methods, equipping attendees with the knowledge needed to conduct rigorous and systematic research.

2. Develop Critical Thinking and Analytical Skills:

To foster critical thinking and enhance the analytical capabilities of participants. Through interactive sessions and practical examples, the workshop aims to improve participants' ability to critically evaluate research literature, identify research gaps, formulate research questions, and apply appropriate methodologies to address these questions effectively.

3. Inspire Innovative and Interdisciplinary Research:

To encourage participants to explore new horizons in research by embracing innovative and interdisciplinary approaches. The workshop aims to inspire researchers to think creatively, integrate diverse perspectives, and apply novel methodologies in their research endeavours, thereby contributing to the advancement of knowledge across various fields.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On August 6, 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Jangipur College organized an online workshop on research methodology titled "Discover New Horizon of Research." The event was held at 2 pm via Google Meet, attracting 37 participants, including students, researchers, and faculty members. The workshop featured Dr. Surajit C. Mukhopadhyay, Professor and Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences at Sister Nivedita University, Kolkata, West Bengal, as the resource person.

The primary objective of the workshop was to provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of research methodology. Dr. Mukhopadhyay began by introducing the fundamental principles of research design, highlighting the importance of choosing appropriate methodologies for different types of research questions. He covered various data collection techniques, including surveys, interviews, and observations, providing practical examples to illustrate their application in real-world research. The session also included an overview of data analysis methods, emphasizing the importance of rigorous and systematic approaches to ensure the validity and reliability of research findings.

Another key focus of the workshop was to develop the critical thinking and analytical skills of the participants. Dr. Mukhopadhyay engaged attendees in interactive discussions, encouraging them to critically evaluate existing research literature and identify research gaps. He provided insights into formulating research questions and hypotheses, guiding participants through the process of designing robust research studies. The interactive nature of the workshop allowed participants to ask questions and seek clarification on various aspects of research methodology, enhancing their understanding and confidence in conducting independent research.

The workshop also aimed to inspire participants to explore innovative and interdisciplinary approaches in their research endeavours. Dr. Mukhopadhyay emphasized the importance of thinking creatively and integrating diverse perspectives to address complex research problems. He shared examples of successful interdisciplinary research projects, highlighting how collaboration across different fields can lead to novel insights and advancements in knowledge. Participants were encouraged to embrace new methodologies and apply them in their research to contribute to the advancement of their respective fields.

The event concluded with a Q&A session, where participants had the opportunity to seek further advice and insights from Dr. Mukhopadhyay. The workshop was well-received, with participants expressing their appreciation for the comprehensive and engaging presentation. The knowledge and skills gained from the workshop equipped attendees with the tools needed to conduct rigorous and impactful research.

Overall, the online workshop on research methodology was a significant step towards enhancing the research capabilities of participants. It underscored the importance of a strong methodological foundation in research and inspired attendees to explore new horizons in their research endeavours. The event demonstrated the commitment of Jangipur College's IQAC to fostering a culture of excellence in research and academic inquiry.

EVENT TITLE: SEMINAR ON JOB OPPORTUNITY

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC, Jangipur College and Reliance Infocom Limited

DATE: 28.11.2022, TIME: 12 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Arnab Kumar Das, Jio centre manager, Reliance Infocom Limited and Mr. Atanu Ghosh, Mobility Sales Lead, Reliance Infocom Limited

OBJECTIVES:

1. Enhance Career Awareness:

The seminar aims to provide students with comprehensive information about current job opportunities in the telecommunications sector, specifically focusing on roles within Reliance Infocom Limited. By understanding the available career paths, students can make informed decisions about their future professional endeavours.

2. Develop Essential Job Skills:

The seminar seeks to equip students with knowledge about the key skills and qualifications required to succeed in the telecommunications industry. Through insights shared by experienced professionals, participants will learn about the technical competencies, soft skills, and industry-specific knowledge that are crucial for securing and excelling in job roles at Reliance Infocom Limited and similar companies.

3. Facilitate Networking and Industry Connections:

One of the primary objectives is to provide a platform for students to interact with industry experts, including Mr. Arnab Kumar Das, Jio Centre Manager, and Mr. Atanu Ghosh, Mobility Sales Lead at Reliance Infocom Limited. This interaction will enable students to build valuable industry connections, seek guidance, and explore potential job and internship opportunities, thereby enhancing their employability and career prospects.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On November 28, 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Jangipur College, in collaboration with Reliance Infocom Limited, organized a highly informative seminar on job opportunities in the telecommunications sector. The event was graced by the presence of two distinguished resource persons: Mr. Arnab Kumar Das, Jio Centre Manager, and Mr. Atanu Ghosh, Mobility Sales Lead at Reliance Infocom Limited. The seminar attracted a substantial number of participants, with 120 students in attendance, all eager to learn about the potential career paths in this rapidly growing industry.

The primary objective of the seminar was to enhance career awareness among students, providing them with comprehensive insights into the job opportunities available within Reliance Infocom Limited and the broader telecommunications sector. Mr. Arnab Kumar Das and Mr. Atanu Ghosh shared their extensive knowledge and experiences, highlighting the various roles and career paths that students could pursue.

The seminar also aimed to develop essential job skills among participants. The resource persons discussed the key competencies required to succeed in the telecommunications industry, emphasizing both technical skills and soft skills. They provided valuable advice on how students could prepare themselves for the job market, detailing the qualifications, certifications, and industry-specific knowledge that are highly sought after by employers in this field.

One of the most significant aspects of the seminar was the opportunity it provided for networking and building industry connections. Students had the chance to interact directly with Mr. Das and Mr. Ghosh, asking questions and seeking guidance on their career paths. This interaction not only enriched the students' understanding of the industry but also helped them establish valuable contacts that could assist them in their future job searches.

The seminar was well-received by the participants, who appreciated the practical insights and real-world advice offered by the resource persons. Feedback from the students indicated that they found the seminar highly beneficial, particularly in terms of understanding the requirements and expectations of employers in the telecommunications sector.

In conclusion, the Seminar on Job Opportunity organized by IQAC, Jangipur College, and Reliance Infocom Limited was a resounding success. It effectively achieved its objectives of enhancing career awareness, developing essential job skills, and facilitating networking opportunities for students. The event underscored the importance of industry-academia collaboration in preparing students for successful careers and highlighted the commitment of Jangipur College to the professional development of its students.

EVENT TITLE: WORKSHOP ON “LAPTOP SERVICES AND REPAIRING-CUM-TEACHING OF ITS USE”

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC, Jangipur College

DATE: 19.12.2022, TIME: 12 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Suvendu Roy, Managing Director, Delta Computer Technology and Surveillance

OBJECTIVES:

1. Enhance Technical Skills:

The primary objective of the workshop is to provide participants with practical knowledge and hands-on experience in laptop servicing and repair. By learning the fundamental techniques of diagnosing and fixing common laptop issues, students will be equipped with valuable technical skills that can enhance their employability and self-sufficiency.

2. Promote Digital Literacy:

Another key objective is to improve digital literacy among participants by teaching them how to effectively use laptops for academic and professional purposes. This includes understanding basic laptop functionalities, software installations, troubleshooting common software issues, and optimizing laptop performance. The workshop aims to empower students to confidently use technology in their daily lives.

3. Foster Entrepreneurship and Career Opportunities:

The workshop also aims to inspire entrepreneurial thinking and create awareness about career opportunities in the field of computer technology and repair services. By interacting with an industry expert like Mr. Suvendu Roy, Managing Director of Delta Computer Technology and Surveillance, participants will gain insights into the business aspects of laptop servicing and repair, potentially motivating them to explore entrepreneurial ventures or pursue careers in this sector.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On December 19, 2022, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) of Jangipur College organized a highly informative and practical workshop on “Laptop Services and Repairing-cum-Teaching of its Use.” The workshop was led by Mr. Suvendu Roy, Managing Director of Delta Computer Technology and Surveillance, and witnessed the enthusiastic participation of 60 students.

The workshop was designed to equip participants with essential technical skills and enhance their digital literacy. It began with an introductory session where Mr. Roy outlined the objectives and significance of the workshop. He emphasized the growing importance of technical skills in today's digital age and how proficiency in laptop repair and maintenance can open up various career opportunities.

During the workshop, Mr. Roy provided a comprehensive overview of laptop components, common issues, and troubleshooting techniques. He demonstrated the step-by-step process of diagnosing and fixing hardware problems, such as screen issues, keyboard malfunctions, and battery replacements. Participants were given the opportunity to engage in hands-on practice, allowing them to apply what they learned in real-time. This practical approach helped to reinforce their understanding and build confidence in their ability to service laptops.

In addition to hardware repair, the workshop also focused on software-related topics. Mr. Roy covered essential aspects of software installation, virus removal, system optimization, and data recovery. He highlighted best practices for maintaining a laptop's performance and ensuring its longevity. Participants learned how to install and configure various software applications, troubleshoot common software issues, and perform routine maintenance tasks.

An important segment of the workshop was dedicated to promoting digital literacy. Mr. Roy explained how to effectively use laptops for academic and professional purposes, including tips on efficient web browsing, using productivity tools, and protecting personal information online. This segment aimed to empower students with the knowledge and skills needed to navigate the digital world confidently and responsibly.

The workshop concluded with an interactive Q&A session, where participants had the chance to ask questions and seek further clarification on topics of interest. Mr. Roy's expertise and engaging teaching style ensured that all queries were addressed thoroughly.

Overall, the workshop on "Laptop Services and Repairing-cum-Teaching of its Use" was a resounding success. It provided valuable technical training, enhanced digital literacy, and inspired participants to consider potential career opportunities in the field of computer technology. The positive feedback from the participants underscored the workshop's impact and the importance of such initiatives in fostering practical skills and knowledge among students.

EVENT TITLE: OFF LINE INTERACTIVE WORKSHOP ON "KOBIR MUKHOMUKHI: KABITA PATH O ALOCHANA"

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC and Department of Bengali, Jangipur College

DATE: 15.02.2023, TIME: 11 am

RESOURCE PERSON: Sri Sibashis Mukhopadhyay, Poet of National fame, Kolkata

OBJECTIVES:

1. Promote Literary Appreciation and Engagement:

To foster a deep appreciation for Bengali poetry and literature among participants. By engaging with the works of renowned poet Sibashis Mukhopadhyay, attendees will gain insights into the thematic and stylistic elements of contemporary Bengali poetry, enhancing their literary sensibilities and appreciation for the art form.

2. Encourage Critical Analysis and Discussion:

To stimulate intellectual discussions and critical analysis of poetry. The interactive nature of the workshop aims to encourage participants to delve into the deeper meanings and contexts of the poems presented, fostering a space for thoughtful dialogue and exchange of ideas on literary techniques, themes, and the socio-cultural relevance of poetry.

3. Inspire Creative Writing and Literary Expression:

To motivate participants, especially aspiring poets and writers, to pursue their own creative writing endeavours. Through direct interaction with Sibashis Mukhopadhyay, participants will be inspired by his experiences and insights, gaining valuable guidance and inspiration to enhance their own poetic expression and literary contributions.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On February 15, 2023, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) and the Department of Bengali at Jangipur College organized an offline interactive workshop titled "Kobir Mukhomukhi: Kabita Path O Alochana." The workshop, held at 11 am, featured Sibashis Mukhopadhyay, a poet of national fame from Kolkata, as the resource person. The event drew 150 participants, including students, faculty members, and literary enthusiasts. The session received enthusiastic feedback from 131 participants, highlighting its success and impact.

The primary objective of the workshop was to promote literary appreciation and engagement with Bengali poetry. Sibashis Mukhopadhyay began the session by reciting some of his notable poems, allowing participants to experience the beauty and depth of contemporary Bengali poetry first-hand. His expressive reading and captivating storytelling brought the poems to life, enhancing the participants' understanding and enjoyment of the literary pieces.

Another key focus of the workshop was to encourage critical analysis and discussion. Following the poetry recitation, Mukhopadhyay engaged the audience in an insightful discussion about the thematic and stylistic elements of his work. Participants were encouraged to ask questions and share their interpretations of the poems, fostering a lively and thoughtful dialogue. This interactive format allowed attendees to delve deeper into the meanings and contexts of the poems, exploring various literary techniques and their socio-cultural relevance.

The workshop also aimed to inspire creative writing and literary expression among participants. Mukhopadhyay shared his experiences and journey as a poet, offering valuable insights into the creative process and the challenges and joys of writing poetry. His anecdotes and practical advice resonated with aspiring poets and writers in the audience, motivating them to pursue their own literary endeavours. The session provided a platform for participants to seek guidance and inspiration, enhancing their confidence and enthusiasm for creative writing.

The event concluded with a feedback session, where participants expressed their appreciation for the engaging and enlightening workshop. Many highlighted the opportunity to interact with a renowned poet as a unique and enriching experience. The positive feedback underscored the workshop's success in achieving its objectives of promoting literary appreciation, encouraging critical discussion, and inspiring creative writing.

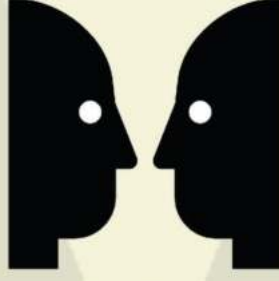

Overall, the "Kobir Mukhomukhi: Kabita Path O Alochana" workshop was a significant event that celebrated the richness of Bengali poetry and literature. It provided participants with a deeper understanding and appreciation of contemporary poetry, stimulated intellectual discussions, and inspired creative expression. The collaboration between IQAC and the Department of Bengali at Jangipur College demonstrated a strong commitment to fostering a vibrant literary culture and supporting the artistic and intellectual growth of its community.

RESOURCE PERSON: Prof. Kunal Chakraborty, JNU, New Delhi, Prof. Susmita Basu Majumdar, CU, Dr. Sibashish Chatterjee, JU Et al.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Promote Scholarly Exchange and Collaboration:

To create a platform for historians, researchers, and scholars to share their latest research findings, methodologies, and perspectives on various historical topics. The conference aims to foster scholarly exchange and collaboration among participants from different institutions, promoting the advancement of historical knowledge and understanding.

2. Encourage Critical Analysis and Debate:

To stimulate critical thinking and intellectual debate on historical issues. By bringing together eminent historians and scholars, the conference seeks to engage participants in rigorous discussions and analyses of historical events, theories, and interpretations, thereby enhancing the depth and breadth of historical scholarship.

3. Inspire and Support Emerging Scholars:

To provide emerging scholars and students with opportunities to present their research, receive constructive feedback, and engage with experienced historians. The conference aims to inspire and support the next generation of historians by offering them a valuable platform for academic growth, networking, and professional development.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

From February 17 to February 19, 2023, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) and the Department of History at Jangipur College hosted the 38th Annual Conference of the Paschimbanga Itihas Samsad. This prestigious event featured an impressive line-up of resource persons, including Prof. Kunal Chakraborty from Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU), New Delhi; Prof. Susmita Basu Majumdar from the University of Calcutta (CU); and Dr. Sibashish Chatterjee from Jadavpur University (JU), among others. The conference attracted 387 participants, comprising historians, researchers, students, and faculty members, and garnered feedback from 311 attendees.

The primary objective of the conference was to promote scholarly exchange and collaboration. Over three days, participants engaged in a series of presentations, panel discussions, and workshops that showcased the latest research findings and methodologies in the field of history. The conference provided a dynamic platform for historians to share their work, exchange ideas, and establish collaborative relationships. This scholarly interaction was instrumental in advancing historical knowledge and fostering a deeper understanding of various historical themes and issues.

Another key focus of the conference was to encourage critical analysis and debate on historical topics. Eminent historians such as Prof. Kunal Chakraborty and Prof. Susmita Basu Majumdar led stimulating discussions on a range of historical subjects, challenging participants to think critically and engage in intellectual debates. These sessions provided an opportunity for attendees to explore different interpretations of historical events, theories, and narratives, enhancing their analytical skills and broadening their perspectives on historical scholarship.

The conference also aimed to inspire and support emerging scholars. By providing a platform for young researchers and students to present their work, the event facilitated academic growth and professional development. Presenters received valuable feedback from experienced historians, helping them refine their research and improve their scholarly contributions. The conference also included networking opportunities, allowing emerging scholars to connect with established historians and peers, fostering a supportive academic community.

The event concluded with a feedback session, where participants expressed their appreciation for the conference's organization, content, and opportunities for engagement. The overwhelmingly positive feedback underscored the success of the conference in achieving its objectives and highlighted the importance of such academic gatherings in promoting historical scholarship.

Overall, the 38th Annual Conference of the Paschimbanga Itihas Samsad was a significant academic event that brought together a diverse group of historians and scholars. It successfully facilitated scholarly exchange, critical analysis, and professional development, contributing to the advancement of historical knowledge and the nurturing of emerging historians. The collaborative efforts of the IQAC and the Department of History at Jangipur College demonstrated a strong commitment to fostering academic excellence and promoting the study of history.

EVENT TITLE: SPECIAL LECTURE AND INTERACTION ON "READING ANNIHILATION OF CASTE"- AMBEDKAR JAYANTI, 2023

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC and Equal Opportunity Cell, Jangipur College

DATE: 12.04.2023, TIME: 1 pm

RESOURCE PERSON: Ishita Roy, Department of English, University of Kalyani

OBJECTIVES:

1. Deepen Understanding of Ambedkar's Philosophy:

To provide participants with a comprehensive understanding of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's seminal work, "Annihilation of Caste." The lecture aims to elucidate Ambedkar's critical perspectives on the caste system, social justice, and equality, fostering a deeper appreciation of his contributions to Indian society and thought.

2. Encourage Critical Reflection and Dialogue:

To stimulate critical reflection and encourage dialogue among participants on the contemporary relevance of Ambedkar's ideas. The interactive session seeks to engage attendees in discussions about the ongoing challenges of caste discrimination and social inequality, promoting an environment of thoughtful analysis and open exchange of ideas.

3. Promote Social Awareness and Advocacy:

To inspire participants to become advocates for social justice and equality. By highlighting the enduring significance of Ambedkar's vision for an egalitarian society, the event aims to motivate attendees to actively contribute to the eradication of caste-based discrimination and to support initiatives that promote social harmony and inclusivity.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

On April 12, 2023, the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) and the Equal Opportunity Cell of Jangipur College organized a special lecture and interaction session titled "Reading Annihilation of Caste" to commemorate Ambedkar Jayanti. The event featured Ishita Roy from the Department of English, University of Kalyani, as the resource person. A total of 141 participants, including students, faculty members, and social activists, attended the event, with 122 providing feedback.

The primary objective of the event was to deepen participants' understanding of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's influential work, "Annihilation of Caste." Ishita Roy began the lecture by contextualizing the historical and social backdrop against which Ambedkar wrote this seminal text. She provided an in-depth analysis of Ambedkar's critique of the caste system, elucidating his arguments for social justice, equality, and the need for radical reform to eradicate castebased discrimination. Roy's engaging presentation shed light on the profound impact of Ambedkar's ideas on Indian society and their enduring relevance in contemporary times.

A significant portion of the event was dedicated to encouraging critical reflection and dialogue among the participants. Following the lecture, Roy facilitated an interactive session where attendees were invited to share their thoughts, ask questions, and discuss the ongoing challenges of caste discrimination. This segment of the event fostered a dynamic and inclusive environment for thoughtful analysis and open exchange of ideas. Participants critically reflected on the contemporary relevance of Ambedkar's philosophy, exploring how his vision for an egalitarian society can inform current social justice initiatives.

The event also aimed to promote social awareness and advocacy. By highlighting the enduring significance of Ambedkar's vision, the lecture sought to inspire participants to become advocates for social justice and equality. Roy emphasized the importance of actively contributing to the eradication of caste-based discrimination and supporting initiatives that promote social harmony and inclusivity. She encouraged participants to draw inspiration from Ambedkar's work and apply his principles in their personal and professional lives to effect positive social change.

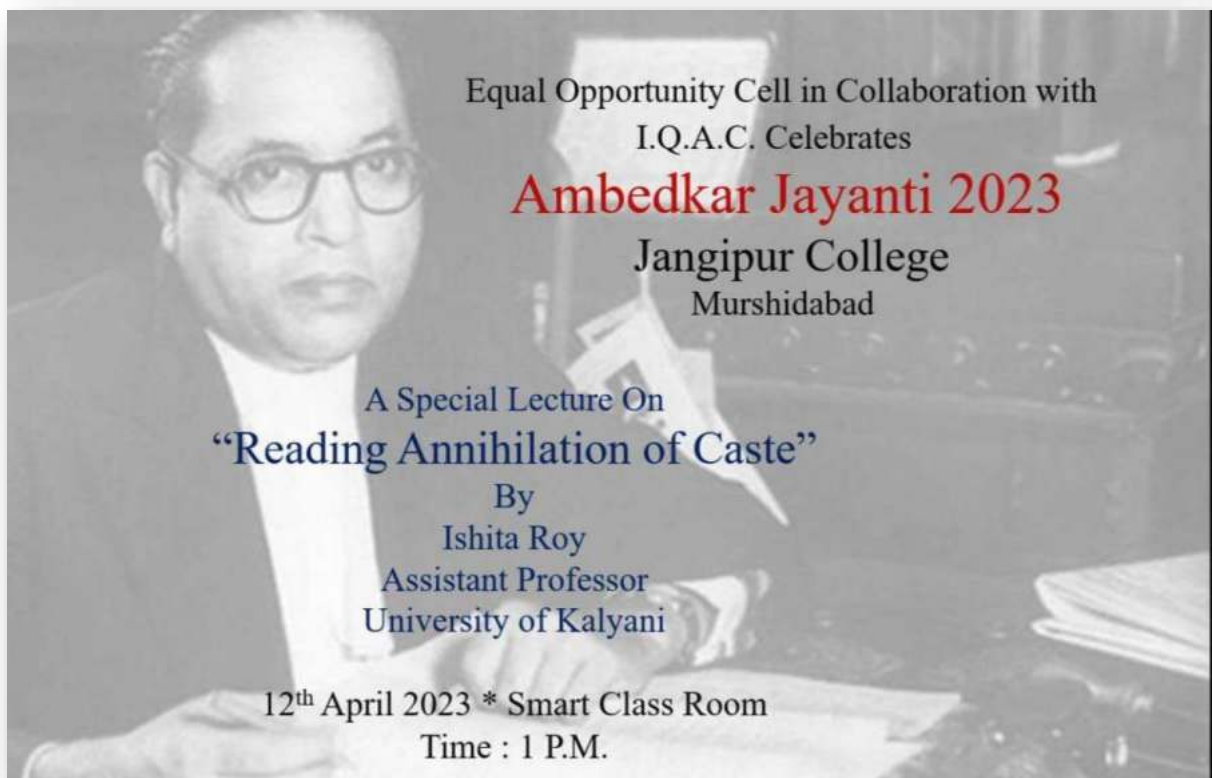

The feedback session at the end of the event revealed an overwhelmingly positive response from the participants. Attendees appreciated the insightful analysis and the opportunity to engage in meaningful discussions about Ambedkar's work. Many expressed that the event had significantly enhanced their understanding of caste-related issues and motivated them to contribute to social justice efforts.

Overall, the special lecture and interaction session on "Reading Annihilation of Caste" was a significant event that honoured Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's legacy. It successfully facilitated a deeper understanding of his philosophy, encouraged critical dialogue, and inspired participants to advocate for social justice and equality. The collaboration between IQAC and the Equal Opportunity Cell of Jangipur College demonstrated a strong commitment to fostering academic excellence and promoting an inclusive society.

EVENT TITLE: ONLINE INVITED TALK ON: "MATUA MOVEMENT IN BENGAL"

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC and Seminar sub-committee in collaboration with Department of Political science & Department of History, Jangipur College.

DATE: 14/05/2023

TIME: 11.00 AM

ONLINE LINK (Gmeet): <https://meet.google.com/mpf-wkjrzs>

STREAMING LINK: <https://youtube.com/live/FmO7lgrGVG4?feature=share>

RESOURCEPERSONS: Retd. Prof. Debi Chatterjee, Jadavpur University.

OBJECTIVE:

1. Exploring the Political History of the Matua Movement:

Professor Debi Chatterjee, renowned for her extensive research on socio-political movements in Bengal, delved into the historical and political development of the Matua movement. Her insights illuminated its evolution over time and its profound impact on the state's political landscape. Drawing from archival data and first-hand accounts, Prof. Chatterjee highlighted key milestones that shaped the Matua community's journey from a religious sect to a significant socio-political force in Bengal.

2. Understanding Autonomous Identity Politics through the Matua Movement:

How the Matua community navigates autonomous identity politics. She emphasized the community's distinct socio-political identity rooted in their religious beliefs and socioeconomic struggles. By analyzing factors such as caste dynamics and historical injustices, Prof. Chatterjee provided a nuanced understanding of how identity politics plays a pivotal role in shaping the Matua movement's aspirations and challenges.

3. Assessing Interactions between the Matua Movement and Other Weaker Sections:

In her discourse, Prof. Chatterjee examined the normative dialogue between the Matua movement and other marginalized groups in Bengal. She underscored the solidarity among various socio-political communities and the shared challenges they confront. By contextualizing these interactions within broader socio-political dynamics, Prof. Chatterjee highlighted the potential for collective action and mutual empowerment among marginalized sections in the state.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The online invited talk on the "Matua Movement in Bengal," organized by IQAC and the Seminar Sub Committee of Jangipur College, unfolded as a compelling exploration into the socio-political landscape of West Bengal. The event commenced with an introductory speech by Mr. Sibashis Chatterjee, President of the Governing Body, who underscored the significance of understanding grassroots movements like the Matua movement in fostering inclusive sociopolitical discourse.

Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge at Jangipur College, delivered a warm welcome address, setting the stage for Prof. Debi Chatterjee's insightful presentation. Prof. Chatterjee, drawing from her expertise in historical research, meticulously traced the trajectory of the Matua movement from its origins to its current socio-political prominence. Her comprehensive analysis provided attendees with a deepened understanding of how identity politics intersects with historical context to shape community mobilization and political engagement.

Throughout the session, participants engaged actively in discussions, probing into the complexities of identity-based narratives and the implications for marginalized communities in Bengal. Prof. Chatterjee's presentation not only illuminated the Matua community's journey but also underscored the broader implications for emancipatory politics in the region.

The event concluded with a vibrant Q&A session, where attendees posed thought-provoking questions on the future directions of the Matua movement and its potential collaborations with other marginalized groups. The talk served as a catalyst for further academic inquiry and community dialogue, reaffirming Jangipur College's commitment to promoting intellectual engagement and socio-cultural awareness among its stakeholders.

Topic : MATUA MOVEMENT IN BENGAL

about the talk

Suddenly in West Bengal we are discussing Identity questions at various levels. The upsurge of identity-based narratives is something which is new as far as the popular culture of the state is concerned. Out of all other social oppressed groups in WB Namashudra community, many of whom belongs to the Matua sect is one of the vocal socio-political community in comparison to the other Dalit , OBC and Tribal groups.

The history of Matua movement is vibrant both politically and academically. Many scholarly works have tried to tease out its relation within the socio-political context of the state at various junctures. It is in this regard it would be interesting to learn the 'Political history' of Matua movement in order to understand its relevance in the present context. In what ways Matua movement can be the vantage point if we want to conceptualise the autonomous identity politics? Is there any normative dialogue between Matua movement and the other weaker section's struggles in the state? What is the relation between Matua sect and classical Hindu religion? By discussing these questions and keeping the Political History of the Matua sect in centre we would be in a position to decipher the future of emancipatory politics in the state.

RESOURCE PERSONS: Sujato Bhadra, Human Rights Activist of international fame.

OBJECTIVES:

1. The event aimed to deepen participants' understanding of sexual violence beyond its immediate manifestations, emphasizing its complex interplay with power dynamics and societal structures. Mr. Sujato Bhadra, renowned for his advocacy in human rights, particularly highlighted how sexual violence perpetuates and is perpetuated by entrenched inequalities within societies globally.

2. Critically Evaluate the Role of Capital Punishment in Rape Cases:

A critical examination of the ethical and practical implications of capital punishment in rape cases formed a crucial part of the discussion. Drawing from his extensive experience, Mr. Bhadra provided insights into the effectiveness of such punitive measures, citing historical precedents and contemporary global practices. His analysis, rooted in empirical evidence and human rights principles, underscored the complexities of justice in addressing crimes of sexual violence. 3. Highlight Alternative Approaches to Justice and Support for Survivors: The event also underscored the importance of alternative approaches to justice that prioritize survivor-centered support and societal reform over punitive measures. Mr. Bhadra's discourse on rehabilitation and community-based interventions resonated with participants, offering a nuanced perspective on fostering resilience and healing among survivors while advocating for systemic changes in legal frameworks.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The online invited talk "Death Penalty and Rape: A Critique" organized by Jangipur College's IQAC, Department of English, and Women's Cell on 21st May 2023, was a compelling exploration of the intersections between sexual violence and justice. The event commenced with an introductory speech by Mr. Sibashis Chatterjee, President of the Governing Body, who underscored the significance of informed dialogue on contentious issues such as capital punishment in rape cases. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge, welcomed the participants, setting the stage for a thought-provoking session.

Mr. Sujato Bhadra, a distinguished human rights activist known for his advocacy on global platforms, delivered a keynote address that delved into the complexities of sexual violence. His insights challenged conventional narratives by highlighting the broader implications of sexual violence on societal structures and power dynamics. Through historical research and contemporary examples, Mr. Bhadra critically examined the efficacy of capital punishment as a deterrent for rape crimes, arguing for a more nuanced approach that prioritizes rehabilitation and societal reform.

The event garnered active participation from 153 attendees, reflecting a diverse cross-section of students, faculty, and community members. Feedback from 139 participants underscored the event's impact, with many expressing appreciations for the depth of analysis and the relevance of alternative justice perspectives discussed. The session concluded with a vibrant Q&A session, where participants engaged Mr. Bhadra on practical steps towards fostering a more equitable and compassionate response to sexual violence within legal and societal frameworks.

Overall, the online invited talk served as a catalyst for critical reflection and dialogue, advancing the college's commitment to fostering informed citizenship and ethical leadership

about the talk

Sexual violence is a term always used in a pejorative form for obvious reasons and its elimination is one of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) adopted by UNDP in 2015. Rape is perhaps the worst form of sexual violence and it signifies power relations and domination of women by men (as the other way round is rare). When the discourse of punishment comes to surface in debates and discussions on rape, one often witnesses the predominance of empathy for the victims (whether survivors or deceased). India is one of the countries that has not abolished the death penalty for rapists. What does it say about the criminal justice system of India? Do meting out death penalty to rape convicts lessen the occurrence of rapes? Statistics say at least, not in India. Feminist scholars as well as a section of society including the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, Michelle Bachelet say rape convicts should be punished, but should not be hanged. One reason for supporting such argument is that firstly, the State cannot take away any citizen's right to life and with increasing death verdicts, convicts now know they will be guillotined once caught, so they are murdering the victims. However, there is a flip side to the debate. With the mass outrage after the Delhi gangrape in 2012, and media outcry on this, the debates on death penalty are much into the domain of academia as well as public arena. What answers do we have for parents of Nirbhaya, Shipra Ghosh (infamous Kamduni case) or for that matter Unnao rape victim? This issue is extremely timely and needs elaboration.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Explore the Rise of Left Consciousness in 1930s Villages in India:

Delve into how and why Left consciousness emerged in Indian villages during the 1930s, particularly in relation to peasant movements and the All-India Kisan Sabha conference of 1939. Highlight the socio-economic factors and political developments that contributed to this rise.

2. Examine the Political and Literary Landscape of Pre-Independence India:

Analyze the diverse political landscape of pre-1947 India beyond the dominance of the All-India Congress party, focusing on the emergence and growth of alternative political parties like the Socialist Party. Discuss how these political movements influenced and were influenced by literary works such as Fanishwarnath Renu's novel "Moila Anchol".

3. Critique Fanishwarnath Renu's Contribution to Literature:

Evaluate Fanishwarnath Renu's novel "Moila Anchol" as a portrayal of rural India's transformation against the backdrop of political upheaval. Explore how Renu's narrative style and use of regional language enriched both Bengali and Hindi literature, contributing a new perspective that transcended rural/urban binaries and created a syncretic cultural environment.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The online invited talk titled “Fanishwarnath Renu er Moila Anchal: Path o Pratikriya” was organized by IQAC and the Department of Bengali at Jangipur College on May 21, 2023. The event aimed to explore the multifaceted themes presented in Fanishwarnath Renu’s novel "Moila Anchol" through the lenses of history, politics, and literature.

The event commenced with an introductory speech by Mr. Sibashis Chatterjee, President of the Governing Body, who emphasized the significance of understanding regional literature in the broader context of Indian socio-political history. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge, then welcomed the attendees, highlighting the importance of scholarly discourse in enriching academic pursuits.

Dr. Chitrita Banerjee, Associate Professor at Shri Shikshayatan College, Kolkata, delivered an insightful session addressing the objectives outlined for the event. Drawing from her expertise in Bengali literature, Dr. Banerjee first explored the rise of Left consciousness in 1930s Indian villages. She elucidated how socio-economic disparities and political developments, including the All-India Kisan Sabha conference of 1939, catalyzed the emergence of Left ideologies among rural communities.

Continuing her discourse, Dr. Banerjee analyzed the political and literary landscape of preIndependence India. She critically examined the dominance of the All-India Congress party and the concurrent rise of alternative political factions such as the Socialist Party. Dr. Banerjee connected these political movements to the literary sphere, demonstrating how authors like Fanishwarnath Renu mirrored and influenced societal changes through their works.

The session concluded with Dr. Banerjee's critique of Fanishwarnath Renu's novel "Moila Anchol". She praised Renu's narrative prowess in depicting rural India's transformation amidst political upheaval, emphasizing his unique blend of regional language and universal themes. Dr. Banerjee underscored Renu's contribution to both Bengali and Hindi literature, highlighting his role in fostering a syncretic cultural environment that transcended traditional rural-urban dichotomies. Overall, the online talk provided a platform for scholarly dialogue on the intersections of literature and socio-political history, celebrating Fanishwarnath Renu's enduring legacy in Indian literary traditions.

Fanishwarnath Renu's "Moila Anchol": A Reading and Reactionary Response

Around 1930s, the villages in India had witnessed the rise of Left consciousness. Just before that, peasant movement had occurred and in 1939 the national conference of All India Kisan Sabha was held. Notably, before 1946 and thereafter, the Socialist Party started gaining ground in India and its gradual sway unravelled. Precisely, during this time, apart from the All-India Congress party there were alternative political parties very much existing and history points out to their emergence and expansion. Against such a historical backdrop, author Fanishwarnath Renu wrote the novel "Moila Anchol" and constructed a narration of rural India's fundamental transformation of novel. He is not outstanding because he has delineated the transformation of Indian rural lifestyle with élan but he is great because as an exemplary author narrating the poetic truth against the political backdrop of India, his narration of history manifested humanitarian authenticity. This was a narration of fresh perspective; a creation of history with new outlook which wiped away the rural/urban binary to create a syncretic culture and environment. Fanishwarnath Renu in his first novel came up with a universality that showcased his matured depiction of the contemporary as well as the past with a rare talent unmatched in Bengali as well as Hindi literature. He is respected equally with same reverence in both literary worlds. No wonder, he has acquired permanence both in Bengali and Hindi literary world. It can be safely inferred that his talent of using the regional language and depiction skills has enriched Hindi literature for the coming generations.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Trace the Evolution of Translated Literature in Bengali and Sanskrit:

Explore the historical development of translated literature in Bengali and Sanskrit from the Middle Ages. Highlight translations of texts like the Bhagavad Gita, Ramayana, Mahabharata, initiated during Husain Shah's reign to revive indigenous literatures and reach broader audiences. Discuss the socio-cultural motivations behind these translations and their impact.

2. Examine the Influence of Translations on Bengali and Sanskrit Literature: Analyse the role translations played in enriching Bengali and Sanskrit literary traditions. Discuss how translations from Arabic, Persian, and English in the nineteenth century diversified literary themes, styles, and ideologies. Explore the reception and adaptation of these works within Bengal and Sanskrit-speaking regions.

3. Evaluate the Contribution of Translated Literature to Cultural Exchange:

Assess the broader implications of translated literature beyond linguistic boundaries. Explore how translations facilitated cultural exchange, mutual understanding, and preservation of diverse literary traditions. Highlight specific translated works that bridged cultural gaps and fostered a syncretic literacy environment in Bengal and among Sanskrit scholars.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The online extension lecture titled “Prosongo Madhyayuga: Anubad Sahitya” was organized by the Department of Bengali and Sanskrit in collaboration with IQAC and the Seminar SubCommittee of Jangipur College on May 28, 2023. The event aimed to delve into the transformative impact of translated literature in both Bengali and Sanskrit traditions, spanning from ancient times to the nineteenth century.

Mr. Sibashis Chatterjee, President of the Governing Body, opened the session with an introductory speech emphasizing the importance of exploring the evolution of translated literature in fostering a deeper understanding of cultural exchange and literary enrichment. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge, welcomed the participants, highlighting the significance of such scholarly discussions in academic pursuits.

Dr. Satyabati Giri, a renowned scholar and former Professor from the Department of Bengali at Jadavpur University, delivered an insightful lecture aligned with the objectives of the event. She traced the historical development of translated literature in Bengali and Sanskrit, beginning from the Middle Ages. Dr. Giri highlighted the pivotal translations initiated during Husain Shah's reign, such as the Bhagavad Gita, Ramayana, and Mahabharata, which aimed to revive indigenous literatures and make them accessible to a wider audience.

Continuing her discourse, Dr. Giri analyzed the profound influence of translations on Bengali and Sanskrit literary traditions. She discussed how translations from Arabic, Persian, and English during the nineteenth century contributed to the diversification of literary themes, styles, and ideologies within Bengal and Sanskrit-speaking regions. Dr. Giri provided examples of specific translated works that not only enriched the literary canon but also facilitated cultural exchange and mutual understanding among diverse communities.

In conclusion, Dr. Giri evaluated the broader implications of translated literature, emphasizing its role in bridging cultural gaps and fostering a syncretic literary environment. The lecture concluded with a vibrant Q&A session where participants engaged enthusiastically, reflecting the event's success in stimulating scholarly discourse. Overall, the online extension lecture provided a platform for exploring the historical significance and enduring impact of translated literature in shaping Bengali and Sanskrit literary traditions and fostering cultural exchange.

আমরা বাংলা সাহিত্য ও সংস্কৃত সাহিত্যের ছাত্র-ছাত্রী মাত্রই জানি সাহিত্য ধারায় অনুবাদ সাহিত্য শাখাটি একটি বিশেষ মাত্রা যোজনা করে। এই ধারাটির সূচনা হয়েছিল মধ্যযুগে, সাধারণ মানুষের বোধগম্যতার প্রয়োজনে। তুর্কি বিজয়ের পর হুসেন শাহর আমলে যখন অক্ষকার যুগের বিশৃঙ্খলা খানিকটা স্থিমিত হয়ে এসেছে তখন উচ্চ বর্ণীয়া নিজেদের জাতিগত সংখ্যা বৃদ্ধি ও পুনরুজ্জীবনের তাগিদে ভাগবত, রামায়ণ, মহাভারত অনুবাদ শুরু করেন। উচ্চ বর্ণ থেকে এতদিন মুখ ফিরিয়ে থাকার মানুষদের পুনরায় ঘরে ফেরানোর জন্য অনুবাদ সৃষ্টির প্রয়োজন হয়েছিল। বলা বহুল্য মালধর বসুর শ্রীকৃষ্ণ বিজয় কাব্যের মধ্য দিয়ে এই ধারার সূচনা হয়েছিল। পরবর্তী কালে সমগ্র উনিশ শতক জুড়েই আরবি, ফারসি, ইংরেজি থেকে অনুবাদ চলছিল। আর তার সূচনা হয়েছিল মধ্যযুগেই সংস্কৃত থেকে অনুবাদের মাধ্যমে।

(We the students of Bengali and Sanskrit literature, know that the branch of translated literature provides a special dimension in the genre of both Bengali and Sanskrit literatures. This genre of translated texts originated in the Middle Ages, out of a need for common man's understanding/comprehension. After the Turkish conquest, when the chaos of the dark ages had calmed down a little during Husain Shah's reign, the upper castes started translating the Bhagavata Gita, Ramayana, Mahabharata and the like in order to increase and revive indigenous literatures. The creation of translation was necessary for the 'homecoming' of the people who had so long turned their backs on the upper castes. Needless to say, this genre had its initiation with the famous poem 'Shrikrishnabijaya' by Maladhar Bose. Later, translations from Arabic, Persian, and English were continued throughout the nineteenth century. And it began in the Middle Ages with translations from Sanskrit.)

EVENT TITLE: ONLINE INVITED TALK ON: “KARL MARX ON ALIENATION AND HUMANISM”

ORGANIZED BY: IQAC & Seminar sub-committee in association with the Department of Philosophy & Department of English, Jangipur College.

DATE: 04/06/2023 TIME:

5:00 pm

ONLINE LINK (Gmeet): <https://meet.google.com/iaq-cfpq-qba>

STREAMING LINK: <https://youtube.com/live/tfEONqdg4YK?feature=share>

RESOURCE PERSONS: Pralayankar Bhattacharya, Associate Professor, Department of Philosophy, Calcutta University.

OBJECTIVES:

1. Examine Karl Marx's Theory of Alienation:

Explore Karl Marx's concept of alienation, focusing on how the division of labour and stratified social classes lead to the estrangement of individuals from their human nature. Discuss the theoretical basis of alienation, which posits that workers lose control over their lives and destinies as they become mere instruments of production, deprived of autonomy and the fruits of their labour. Analyse how this alienation impacts individual identity and relationships within society.

2. Discuss Marxist Humanism:

Investigate Marxist humanism as a body of thought and political action that interprets Marx's works through a humanist lens. Explore its core inquiries into human nature and the type of society most conducive to human flourishing. Contrast Marxist humanism with dialectical materialism and structural Marxism, particularly in how it diverges in its emphasis on human agency, self-realization, and the critique of alienation within capitalist structures.

3. Critique Contemporary Relevance:

Evaluate the contemporary relevance of Marx's theories on alienation and humanism in today's socio-economic context. Discuss how these concepts resonate or differ in present-day discussions on labour relations, social justice, and economic inequality. Analyse whether Marx's insights into alienation and humanism offer valuable perspectives for understanding and addressing modern societal challenges.

SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE EVENT:

The online invited talk titled "Karl Marx on Alienation and Humanism" was organized jointly by the Department of English and Department of Philosophy, in association with IQAC at Jangipur College on June 4, 2023. The event aimed to delve into Karl Marx's profound analyses of alienation and humanism and their enduring relevance in contemporary discourse.

Mr. Sibashis Chatterjee, President of the Governing Body, inaugurated the session with an introductory speech highlighting the significance of exploring Marx's theories in understanding the complexities of modern society. Dr. Naba Kumar Ghosh, Teacher-in-Charge, welcomed the participants, underscoring the importance of scholarly dialogues in enhancing academic perspectives.

Prof. Dr. Pralayankar Bhattacharya, an esteemed Associate Professor from the Department of Philosophy at Calcutta University, delivered an insightful lecture aligned with the objectives of the event. Dr. Bhattacharya began by examining Karl Marx's theory of alienation, elucidating how the division of labour and class stratification result in individuals being estranged from their inherent human nature. He discussed Marx's critique of capitalism, emphasizing how the economic structure deprives workers of autonomy and the ability to control their destinies, thereby affecting their sense of identity and relationships within society.

Continuing his discourse, Dr. Bhattacharya explored Marxist humanism as a philosophical approach that interprets Marx's works through a humanist perspective. He analyzed Marx's inquiries into human nature and proposed societal structures that foster human flourishing. Dr. Bhattacharya contrasted Marxist humanism with dialectical materialism and structural Marxism, highlighting differences in their approaches to understanding human agency and the critique of alienation within capitalist systems.

In conclusion, Dr. Bhattacharya evaluated the contemporary relevance of Marx's theories, particularly in light of current socio-economic challenges such as labor relations, social justice, and economic inequality. He engaged the audience in a lively discussion on whether Marx's insights offer valuable insights for addressing modern societal issues.

Overall, the online talk provided a platform for rigorous academic exploration and critical reflection on Karl Marx's seminal ideas, underscoring their enduring significance in contemporary socio-political discourse.

Topic: Karl Marx on Alienation & Humanism

about the talk

The estrangement of people from aspects of their human nature resulted from the division of labour and living in a society of stratified social classes. The alienation from the self is a consequence of being a mechanical part of a social class, the condition of which estranges a person from their humanity. The theoretical basis of alienation is that the worker invariably loses the ability to determine life and destiny when deprived of the right to think of themselves as the director of their actions, to determine the character of said actions to define relationships with other people and to own those items of value and goods from their services produced by their own labour. Though they are an autonomous self-realized human being as some economic entities, these workers are directed by those who own the means of production to extract from the worker the maximum amount of surplus value in business competition among industrialists.

Similarly, Marxist humanism is an international body of thought and political action rooted in a humanist interpretation of his works of him. It is an investigation into 'what human nature consists of and what sort of society would be most conducive to human thriving'. This theory argues that he was concerned with investigating similar questions. This theory contradicts the theory of dialectical materialism and interpretations of Marx rooted in the structural Marxism of Louis Althusser.
